TORNADO LEAVES DEATH AND RUIN

WINDSTORM CAUSES HAVOC IN JEWELL COUNTY, KAN.

SEVERAL DEAD; SCORE INJURED

PROPERTY LOSS IN BUILDINGS AND CROPS ENORMOUS.

BODIES CARRIED THROUGH AIR

Nothing Left Standing in Path of Storm and Victims Are Blown From Beds and Dropped in Neighboring Fields Dead or Injured.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 28.—A terrific windstorm of the proportions of a tornado, which passed over the southern part of Jewell county last night, killed one man and injured 22 persons, seven of them probably fatally:

Dead:

GEORGE HAHN.

Injured:

As far as known the list is complete:

Mrs. George Hahn, fatally.

Frank Crites and wife, the latter probably fatally.

John Bowman and family.

Charles Durant and family.

William Appelby and family.

A family named McFarland, the husband and wife, both fatally.

A boy named Mosher, who lived with the Appleby family, had an arm broken and received internal injuries.

Sweeps Clean Path.

The storm traveled from the southwest and was 150 yards wide. It took everything in the path and scattered a number of houses, barns and small buildings over the prairie. The property damage will amount to thousands of dollars and the damage to the growing crops is large. The Bowman house was picked up and carried across the street and dashed to pieces against a fence. The members of the family were all in bed and all were injured.

The home of Frank Crites was blown to pieces and Crites was carried a quarter of a mile and dropped in a cemetery. He was slightly injured. Mrs. Crites was carried a half mile and placed in a wheat field, where she was found toward morning more dead than alive. She will die. The Durant home was torn to pieces and the debris and the members of the family were blown entirely off the farm.

The storm took a southwesterly course, doing considerable property damage in Jewell, Cloud and Clay counties, striking near Concordia and Clay Center.

Oklahoma Has Tornado.

GUTHRIE, Okla., May 28.—Tornadoes that swept over the country adjacent to Hennessy, 40 miles northwest of here, and Cashion, 14 miles southwest, today brought great damage to crops and farm property. There is no telegraph or telephone communication in Kingfisher and West Logan county.

A cloudburst visited the town of Seward, seven miles south of Guthrie, late this afternoon. Flood warnings have been sent out and another inundation seems imminent. The Cottonwood river is rapidly rising.

Floods in Missouri.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 28.—Reports from Maryville, Oregon, Tarkio and other northwest Missouri towns are to the effect that thousands of acres of lands have been flooded. Most of land had been planted in corn and damage was heavy. In Nodaway county 10 inches of rain fell in the last few days. The Missouri is rising here and the government dikes near Ellwood, under construction, are threatened. In South St. Joseph a hundred houses are flooded.

LAND FRAUD TRIAL PROCEEDS

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Charges Against Oregon Men of Illegal Land Grabbing.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—[illegible] Messrs. Hyde, Benson, Dimond, and Schneider in criminal court on a charge of defrauding the government of valuable lands in the west entered upon the most important stage yet when the case Stafford de[illegible] in behalf of the government a motion for a verdict of acquittal for the defense which has as their object the taking of the case from the jury and the immediate acquittal of one or all the defendants.

The court refused to take the case out of the hands of the jury and dismiss the case.

Friday marked the beginning of the fifth week of the trial. The [illegible] after Justice Stafford disposed of the motion the jury which had been out of court since Monday was brought back and attorneys for the defense made their opening statements, the substance of which was neither Benson nor Dimond knew of any irregularity in the purchase of lands by Hyde and Schneider in Oregon.

HEAT SETTLES FILIBUSTERING

SENATORS GASP BEHIND PALM LEAF FANS.

ADJOURNMENT IS IMMINENT

OPPOSITION TO CURRENCY BILL BREAKS DOWN.

MINORITY THROWS UP FIGHT

High Temperature Takes Starch Out of Opponents of Measure, Which Will Pass With Little Active Opposition.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The anticipated strenuous opposition to the adoption of the conference report on the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill in the Senate, according to the inference to be drawn from the debate today, probably will not materialize. Senator Aldrich kept the report before the Senate until nearly 4 p. m. when he assented to its being laid aside until 11 o'clock tomorrow and the remainder of the day was devoted to the passage of bills on the calendar.

Every senator realized that the meaning of the movement was that an understanding had been reached to vote on the bill tomorrow. Inquiry proved the existence of this understanding although no positive agreement has been made. The indications are therefore that Congress will adjourn sine die tomorrow or on Saturday.

Senators Swelter in Heat.

Unquestionably the temperature, which was higher today than at any time during the present session had something to do with the indisposition on the part of many senators to discuss this question. Palm leaf fans were in evidence among the senators who found it necessary to be on the floor and at no time was a quorum present except when the roll was being called to establish the quorum. During the morning the Democrats had sweltered through a conference lasting more than an hour at which it was decided not to filibuster against the bill. While the conference had no binding force, the sentiment favored the minority standing together in a solid vote against the bill. On the other hand, it is not likely that more than two Republicans will join the opposition.

Teller Opposes Bill.

The discussion today was opened by Senator Aldrich who made a statement regarding the compromise bill. Some of the Democrats then sought to get an agreement to consider the campaign publicity bill and afterward speeches against the currency measure were made by Senators Teller, Newlands and Owens. No others were ready to speak. Senator Aldrich spent most of the day trying to arrange an agreement to vote on the bill tomorrow. This was not opposed by Senator Culberson, the minority leader, but Senator La Follette who is very much opposed to the bill asked that a motion for an agreement be not passed.

La Follette Unsupported.

Stating frankly that he had tried to organize a filibuster against the bill, but had met with little encouragement Senator La Follette said he probably would not speak at length. From the position assumed by him it did not appear necessary to obtain an agreement to vote on the conference report tomorrow. In fact, it was said that an agreement might delay the taking of the vote as senators were unwilling to fix a time earlier than 5 o'clock though it is not believed the senators who want to speak tomorrow will consume the six hours between 11 and 5 o'clock.

NATIVES OF SAMOS IN REVOLT

Palace of Prince Is Attacked and Many Lives Lost in Fighting. Warships May Intervene.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 28.—The inhabitants of the island of Samos, off the west coast of Asia Minor, are in revolt against the Prince of Samos and the governor of the island. Fighting has been going on at Vathi, the capital, for the past three days, and there are ominous outlines of the encounters.

It is feared that the Turkish reinforcements now on their way to the island will start a massacre. A proposal that the powers dispatch warships to Samos is urged. The principality of Samos exists under the guarantee of France, Great Britain and Russia.

"AND HE WAS THAT LONG!"

FRIENDSHIP IS LASTING

FRENCH AND BRITISH COURT EACH OTHER.

Visit of President Fallieres to King Has Cemented Bonds Between Two Nations.

LONDON, May 28.—The banquet given at the French embassy tonight by M. Cambon to President Fallieres and King Edward, was quite a formal affair. There were no speeches. The guests, who numbered nearly 100, included the American ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, the minister of state and several foreign ambassadors and other notable men of both nations.

M. Pichon, minister of foreign affairs of the French republic, who is in London with President Fallieres, was interviewed this afternoon and said that the president of France had been profoundly impressed with the magnificent reception accorded him in London.

"It is in my eyes a most cheering justification to those of us who have all their lives supported the policy of an understanding with Great Britain," M. Pichon said, "to see that policy triumph in the form of, to adopt King Edward's phrase, a permanent entente. The enthusiastic welcome given to the president of the French republic proves that the entente cordiale has definitely entered into the policies of the two countries as one of the fundamental bases thereof.

"Not only is it considered by the two peoples and by both governments as responding to a necessary and as a logical development of the history of England and France, but it is popular on both sides of the Channel. The English and French feel instinctively that this is one of the surest means of counteracting all combinations that might interfere with the interests of England and France and threaten the peace which both wish to have maintained, because it is the first and foremost of their needs."

WINDY CITY HAS GALE

WIND GOES 86 MILES AN HOUR IN CHICAGO.

Much Property Damaged, Several Persons Injured and Panic Reigns During Terrific Storm.

CHICAGO, May 28.—A gale of wind, which reached a greater velocity than has been recorded in Chicago for seven years, tonight preceded an electric storm which did considerable damage in various parts of the city. Several persons were injured by debris blown from buildings by the gale, and a church and half a score of other buildings were struck by lightning. The storm was the culmination of a day of [illegible] disturbances which began with daylight and continued intermittently until nearly midnight.

The greatest single instance of damage occurred when an 80-foot iron chimney was blown from the roof of an eight-story building at No. 319 La Salle street. The chimney fell across a court, breaking windows in the Revere hotel, [illegible] from the fourteenth to the sixth floor and also crashed through a skylight in a restaurant adjoining. One man was severely cut by broken glass and [illegible] of guests in the hotel and restaurant were thrown into a panic.

The high wind, which [illegible] a velocity of 86 miles an hour, crippled telegraph and telephone wires throughout the city. For a short time the city was almost cut off from communication with the outside world, but most of the damage in this regard was of a temporary nature and was soon readjusted.

The day opened with a severe electrical and rain storm which was almost a cloudburst. The humidity engendered by this outburst increased during the day until 88.76 was recorded and the temperature also mounted steadily, the maximum being 79 degrees, 17 points above the minimum. The rainfall for the morning and evening storms was .95 of an inch, the heaviest experienced here in a long period. The storm was a [illegible]

the disturbance which has been hanging over the middle west for several days. Local conditions had kept this city free from disturbance until today.

HAVE UNIFORM GRADING

COMMISSIONER URGES REFORM IN COTTON EXCHANGES.

Wants New York to Lower Its Classification and New Orleans to Raise Her Grades.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, today made public the second and third parts of his report, "The operation of cotton exchanges of the United States, dealing with the classification of cotton," and the range of grades deliverable on contract.

The commissioner treats of conditions on the New York and New Orleans exchanges, the only two markets in this country doing a future business. He has found that the methods of the two are radically different and that criticism of both have been made. He finds that in New York there is overgrading and overclassification in cotton, while in New Orleans there appears to be undergrading. The commissioner urges the adoption of a system of uniform grades, if possible, thus simplifying both and putting an end to serious abuses.

The report considers at length the criticisms directed at the large number of grades now deliverable on future contracts, said Commissioner Smith, says that the importance of the exchanges of New York and New Orleans and their effect upon the cotton industry render it desirable that consideration be given to practical lines of improvements of methods.

HOLDS TO DISCIPLINE

METHODIST RULE ON AMUSEMENTS STANDS.

Conference Is Determined Not to Allow Question of Dancing to Be Discussed in Sessions.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 28.—Adverse action today by the Methodist Episcopal general conference on an apparently unimportant motion is said tonight to have been at bottom a determination on the part of a large number of delegates to bury the whole question of whether or not paragraph 248 of the book of discipline, which deals with amusements, shall be changed.

The motion in question was that a time be set for consideration of the report of the committee which has had the question under consideration. The motion was lost by a decisive vote. Nothing was said in explanation other than the report should be given precedence over other important matters. Tonight, however, it is thought that there is a determined purpose on the part of the amusement lovers to be the issue in the floor of the conference [illegible] possible to prevent it. A change would be in line with the suggestion contained in the episcopal address and which has spoken not [illegible] to the bishops there was very strong sentiment against any change in paragraph 248, which will simply remain in force as it now stands in the section can be kept from the agitation [illegible] the question.

[illegible] Dr. A. K. Chase has [illegible] a resolution [illegible] the committee on revision of the book of discipline [illegible] to divorce. It calls upon the proper national authorities to make a special study of divorce and be instructed to create [illegible] in favor of uniform divorce laws in all the states of the Union, such laws to be in harmony with the findings of the interdenominational conference of Protestant churches on this subject. The paragraph also suggests that in the proposed uniform laws a provision be included requiring as a prerequisite to the filing of a suit for divorce by any one coming to such state for the purpose of filing such a suit, a stay of the same length of time as would be necessary to secure a legal residence in that state.

RAILROAD IN MUDDLE

PITTSBURG TERMINAL IN FINANCIAL STRAITS.

Interest on Mortgage Due and Last Report Shows Deficit of $500,000 Last Year.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Officials of the Gould roads were in conference today concerning the affairs of the Pittsburg Terminal Railway company. Interest amounting to $600,000 on the first mortgage bonds of the road falls due on Monday and doubt was expressed in financial circles today whether the interest would be met.

Today's meeting of the Pittsburg Terminal directors was preceded by that of the Wabash board. No official statement was issued after the meetings, but it was announced that another meeting of the Pittsburg Terminal board will be held tomorrow when some action regarding the interest payment on the first mortgage bonds will probably be taken.

In the financial district reports of a complete reorganization of the Pittsburg Terminal were current and it was learned that a tentative reorganization committee friendly to the controlling interests had been formed. The financial condition of the Pittsburg Terminal railway, which owns the largest part of the Wheeling and Erie stocks and is controlled by the Wabash, is not encouraging. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, Pittsburg Terminal reported a deficit of about $500,000 and for the nine months of the current year earnings were $480,000 net with fixed charges of about $900,000.

In view of the condition of the Pittsburg Terminal's finances some significance attaches to the report from Pittsburg that officials of the Grand Trunk railway and the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg road have been making an inspection tour of the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal systems.

ABDUCTS LADY IN AUTO

ROBBER FOLLOWED AND IS KILLED BY BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Domestic Trouble Ends in Death of Husband, Who Carried Off Wife's Friend.

LIGONIER, Ind., May 28.—William Patterson kidnaped a Mrs. Sargent this afternoon and was shot dead by a posse which were in pursuit. The fatal shot was fired by Patterson's brother-in-law, after he himself had been wounded by the abductor. The Patterson's live at Lake Wawase and Mrs. Sargent also lives there, being a warm friend of Mrs. Patterson. Recently Patterson and his wife separated and Patterson blamed Mrs. Sargent for causing the trouble.

This afternoon Patterson secured an automobile and came here. He compelled a local hotel man named Hoover to go with him to the home of Dr. Franks, the father of Mrs. Patterson, where Mrs. Sargent was said to be staying. On the way they met a carriage containing Dr. Franks and Mrs. Sargent. Patterson drew a revolver and forced Mrs. Sargent to get into the automobile with him. They then headed for Millersburg at full speed. News of the abducting spread rapidly and a posse headed by Ernest Franks, Mrs. Patterson's brother, started in pursuit in a buggy.

Patterson's automobile was overtaken near Millersburg. Patterson opened fire and the shot struck his brother-in-law in the thigh. Franks returned the fire and Patterson fell dead at almost the first shot. Mrs. Sargent was not injured.

PRESBYTERIANS WANT NO "BOSS"

PROTEST AGAINST INDIVIDUAL INFLUENCE.

DECRY "RING" IN CHURCH

RETIRING MODERATOR SUBJECT OF CRITICISM.

DOMINATED ALL BRANCHES

General Assembly Goes on Record Against Divorce Except on Biblical Grounds and Urges Congress to Protect Prohibitionists.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 28.—Church government, temperance and marriage and divorce were the important subjects before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today.

By far the most important action of the session was the adoption of a resolution which makes it impossible for any paid agent or member of the church boards, or any permanent officer of the original assembly except the moderator, to serve on the executive commission, the ruling body of the administrative affairs of the church.

The creation of the executive commission was embodied in the report of the committee on administrative agencies adopted by the assembly and is the direct result of the ever-recurring cry that certain men in the church were acquiring too much power.

The action today means that all the church boards will report to the executive commission of 15 members when it has been selected and that the government of the church will devolve upon men who have not heretofore served in executive capacities.

Clique in Church Ring.

While the speeches made before the assembly indicated that half a dozen men were in the so-called church "ring," it is an open secret that Dr. William Henry Roberts of Philadelphia, the retiring moderator, was the one man against whom the protests were aimed.

Many talking about Dr. Roberts said they loved him but he was so efficient in church affairs that his very ability gave him more power than one man should have. He had been in the assembly so long, they said, that he had an intimate knowledge of every detail of the church government and practically dominated the business affairs of the church.

The church reaffirmed its position that divorce should be granted only upon biblical grounds. The assembly approved the efforts of the international conference in influencing public opinion to overcome the evils that threaten the sanctity of the marriage relation, the integrity of the family and the welfare of the state.

The assembly voted to appropriate $25,000 to continue the work of the temperance committee and adopted a resolution declaring no revenues derived from the liquor business should be used for popular government and calling upon Congress to protect states that had abolished the traffic.

To Select Meeting Place.

The first business of the assembly tomorrow will be to choose a place for the annual meeting next year. Seattle thus far has been in the lead through the effective work of Rev. Mark Allison Matthews of that city, but there is an element opposed to having the next assembly on the Pacific coast because of the distance. Several presbyteries have sent overtures to the assembly demanding that the body spend less money, that it reduce the representation or reapportionment and that it meet less frequently.

So with the spirit of economy sapping strength, Seattle and Denver and other far western candidates may lose in the contest with Oklahoma City, which has a lively electioneering force on the ground.

SMELL WILL IS SET ASIDE

Jury Decides That Millionaire Who Disinherited Son Was Mentally Unsound.

CLINTON, May 28.—At 4 o'clock this morning the jury in the Snell will case, after having been out two hours, brought in a verdict setting aside the will. The jury was unanimous in declaring the testator was of unsound mind.

The case has been on trial here in the circuit court for 23 days and is the second attempt to break the will of Colonel Tom Snell, millionaire, which cut Snell's only son off with an annuity of $50.

In his closing argument Attorney Richard Lemon for the plaintiffs bitterly denounced the letters to Colonel Snell signed Bull White were read to the jury, saying:

"Hades could not emit one curse so infamous as to suggest in [illegible] gestion the language of these letters. If so, it is beyond the ken of any man to appreciate or human mind to know what it could be."

At the first trial the remarkable letters to the aged millionaire were ruled out and the trial resulted in a disagreement. Judge Philbrook permitted them to be introduced as evidence at the trial just closed.

JAPAN VIOLATES TRADE CONTRACT

HAS REVERSED POLICY OF OPEN DOOR IN ORIENT.

BUSINESS STRUGGLE BITTER

JAPS ARE READY FOR EVERY EMERGENCY.

SHOW GREAT WAR ACTIVITY

Port Arthur and Dalny Are Being Rendered Practically Impregnable. European and American Goods Are Excluded From Manchuria.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 28.—G. C. Druce, former mayor of Oxford, England, secretary to the Botanical Society of Great Britain, and curator of the Herbarium of the University of Oxford, who has just arrived here from the orient after an extensive tour of China, Korea and Japan, gives a highly interesting but somewhat pessimistic account of Japan's military and political activity in the far east, and the effect of the visit of the American battleships to that part of the world.

"While the official classes are reserved, the Japanese people are not the least perturbed over the dispatch of the American battleships to the orient," said Mr. Druce. "Of course, everybody in the far east except the diplomats associate the demonstration of America's naval power with the Manchurian trade question. The famous open door policy advocated by all the white races is in reality a nullity."

Japan, declares Mr. Druce, has completely reversed the "open door" policy in Manchuria, excepting with her own people.

Fortifying Port Arthur.

With the arrival of the American battleship fleet in the Pacific and the talk of trouble with the United States in the future, Japanese statesmen, Mr. Druce believes, are preparing for any emergency. Port Arthur, the former Russian stronghold, is being made virtually impregnable, while the fortifications at Dalny, a seaport and the railway terminus on the mainland, now occupied by the Japanese, are being rushed to completion with feverish haste.

Mr. Druce gives it as his opinion that a clash with the powers over a continuance of the discriminatory policy now being carried out in favor of Japanese subjects in the orient is inevitable. Even if Japan is compelled to back down, he believes her surrender will bring about advantages.

"Since Japan took possession of Manchuria," said Mr. Druce, "she has handicapped all her competitors by a system of duties or impositions which do not apply to Japan's citizens. The issue is a live one in the orient today, and unless I am misinformed, there will be some developments ere long.

Boycott on European Goods.

"Every European trader or commercial traveler I met had the same story to relate of the methods adopted by Japan to keep European goods out of Manchuria.

"Japan, although poor, is an aggressive nation which will not surrender her advantages won by a successful war even against a united front, unless she gets some compensation. Japan is in Manchuria to stay. The coming of the American fleet has not been overlooked by her statesmen who believe in preparing for any contingency which may arise in the next few years.

Vast Military Activity.

"Port Arthur, which will be a strong refuge before its downfall is being made almost impregnable. It is a second Gibraltar. During my visit there I saw evidences of great military activity. New batteries are being built everywhere. If Port Arthur was strong during the Russian occupation it will soon be rendered doubly so. Dalny is also being fortified with almost feverish haste. Hitherto it had few defenses and was abandoned by the Russians early in the same war. Dalny is the great port of entry for Manchuria. It is now a Japanese city. In Korea we heard many complaints of the tyrannical oppression of the natives by the Japanese."

RECOUNT FAVORS HEARST

From Six Boxes a Total of 41 Votes Are Added to Returns.

NEW YORK, May 28.—When today's session of the McClellan-Hearst recount trial was concluded, a total of 41 votes had been added to William R. Hearst's vote in the 1905 mayoralty election. The contents of six boxes were overhauled in the presence of the court and several discrepancies in the official count were brought to light. In one case, while the tally sheet and the official canvass figures were identical, the count of the ballots disclosed 23 more votes for Hearst than had been returned.

This was the greatest gain of the day for the Hearst side, the returns being found correct in two districts and errors which added from two to seven to the Hearst total in four others. The net result of the count for the two days' session had been to give the contestant for the mayoralty 88 more votes than he was credited with receiving.

HAS FOUND NEW CURE

Denver Doctor Claims to Have Discovered Remedy for Tuberculosis.

DENVER, May 28.—Through experiments made by Dr. W. G. Holden, head of the Phipps sanitarium, and a world renowned consumption expert there will be given to the public next week one of the most remarkable discoveries in the history of medical science.

Dr. Holden's discovery—or perhaps it may be better termed the working out of Koch's tuberculin theories—while not a cure will do more to cut down the death rate caused by the white plague than any other remedy made known to science in years.

The result of Dr. Holden's experiments will be made public next week at the meeting of the National Tuberculosis congress in Chicago. Though the doctor will keep secret his discoveries until the National congress meets in Chicago next week he has already saved hundreds of lives by the use of his methods during the past six months and quite naturally his secret is shared by many others.

A BUSY BASEBALL DAY

FIVE GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW.

Zebs and Selecites Play Morning and Afternoon—College and City League Games at Washburn.

10 a. m.—Pikes Peak vs. Yeomen, City league, double-header at Washburn field.

10:30 a. m.—First game, Zebs vs. Selecites, State league, at Roswell park.

3 p. m.—Colorado College vs. Colorado Agricultural college, closing intercollegiate game, at Washburn field.

3:30 p. m.—Second game, Zebs vs. Selecites, state league, at Roswell park.

With five games on the card, there will be more baseball in Colorado Springs tomorrow than on any single day in several years. Good baseball is promised in every game, and Colorado Springs fans will have an opportunity to enjoy every variety of the great national sport, and at practically all hours of the day.

First on the program comes the double-header in the City league, in which the Pikes Peaks and Yeomen teams, comprising some of the fastest amateurs in the city, and including a number of High School and Cutler Academy stars, will perform at Washburn. The teams will line up as follows:

Yeomen		Pikes Peak.
Peabody	p.	Hastings
J. Steninger	c.	Borden
D. Hudson	1b.	Ady
H. D. Hudson	2b.	Finlay
Davis	ss.	Kelly
Turner	3b.	Bancroft
Friend	lf.	Coombs
Whittaker	cf.	Blood
Murphy	rf.	Hughes

Colorado College and the Aggies close the college season with their game in the afternoon. Although the Aggies won the first game at Fort Collins, they are not so sure of victory here, as the Tigers will be on their home grounds. The conclusion game and prove their right to third place in the scramble over Boulder. Burkhart will probably do the pitching for the Farmers, while it will be either Van Stone or Hyser for the Tigers.

Zebs Ready for Selecites.

The Zebs will have the Selecites for opponents in both morning and afternoon games, and count on taking both. But they will have to work hard to do this, especially if Ackley is called upon to pitch both games, as seems probable. The Selecites have been playing a series on the western slope, and have been putting up a good article of ball. In a game with Glenwood Springs yesterday they won 4 to 3. Willett, doing the pitching for the westerners. Selec's team is well supplied with pitchers, and this will be an important factor in the three-game series. In charge of Sam Kenworthy, the Denver sporting writer, the team will arrive here today.

It was announced yesterday by Manager Good that ten checks from last Saturday's game will be ready near the morning and afternoon contests. It is usual to accept them only at the first game following, but the management has decided a point in favor of the Zebs. The Zebs will line up at the bat in the following order: Walsh, second base; Cramer, right field; Moorehead, center field; Dow, scorekeeper; Wahl, first base; Gray or McHugh, left field; Wolfgang, catcher; Clifford, utility man; Ackley, pitcher. Watson may pitch one of the games, but it is probable that he will be saved for the Sunday contest.

President E. W. Dickerson returned to Denver yesterday after a week's absence in Detroit, where he was called by his father's death.

Today Your Last Chance to Catch Bargains in Suits and Ready-to-Wear Things at Alteration Sale Prices

It's the last day of our stupendous alteration sale and the last day of the greatest value-giving event ever known in Colorado Springs. Today's newspaper story is short, sharp and decisive. The story is simply this: We have had to make tremendous price cuts that there may be as little merchandise as possible to move while we are installing the new fixtures in our suit room and improving our second floor generally.

You'll find many other bargains equally as good, underpriced but not advertised every one marked at a figure that makes comparison impossible. You know Kaufman's way of making prices and values accomplish desired results.

DISCUSS SUMMER BALL

COLLEGES TO HOLD CONFERENCE IN DENVER TODAY.

Will Also Consider Football Eligibility Rules and Track Meet.—Intercollegiate Association.

Representatives of all the colleges in Colorado will meet at Denver university today to hold a conference on the general athletic situation and to draw up some form of agreement for the regulation of intercollegiate athletics. It is probable that a state intercollegiate association with jurisdiction over all branches of athletics will be formed. Prof. J. W. Park, chairman of the athletic board, and Manager William Lennox will represent Colorado College.

Two specific problems that are to be considered are those of summer baseball and of football eligibility rules. Summer baseball has become a serious question in intercollegiate athletics this spring because of the participation of a number of the college stars in semiprofessional and state league baseball. The opinion of the various colleges is divided, some favoring the placing of the ban on all baseball in which the player receives money, and others desiring to allow summer baseball provided the man does not play with other teams during the college season.

The question of football eligibility rules has been up for some time. For some years each college has made its own rules and there has been much dissatisfaction. A series of rules was proposed at the faculty conference last winter but these have not been generally adopted. It is expected that a code based on this one, which includes the one-year residence rule regarding men from other colleges, the four-year playing rule, scholarship qualifications, and other regulations, will be adopted.

The formation of a conference to have charge of the annual intercollegiate track meet and thus prevent a squabble such as arose this spring, is also under consideration. Denver university wants the meet held annually on its field, this being the most centrally located.

FINALS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Miss Gauss and Mr. Gauss to Play Mrs. Joy and Dr. Gillett This Afternoon

Miss Gauss and Mr. Gauss will play Mrs. Joy and Dr. Gillett in the finals for the mixed double tennis tournament at the Cheyenne Mountain Country club at 4 o'clock this afternoon. By defeating their respective opponents in the semi-finals yesterday, these two couples qualified for the final game today. All will receive cups—large ones for the two winners of the tournament, and smaller ones for the two runners-up.

Much interest has been manifested in the tournament all week, as evidenced by the large crowd attending each day. The scores were exceedingly close in every game except the two played yesterday, when both winners secured two straight games. Even in these the play was more close and exciting than indicated by the score.

The two qualifying couples who will play today each have a mark of minus one-half in the handicap tournament, so they will both play scratch.

Following are the scores in yesterday's semifinals:

Miss Gauss and Mr. Gauss, minus one-half 30, defeated Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Taylor, scratch, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. Joy and Dr. Gillett, minus one-half 30, defeated Miss Eyre and Charles L. Tutt, Jr., plus 15, 6-2, 6-3.

Keene's Fast 3-Year-Old Breaks Down After Working in Wonderful Time.

BELMONT PARK, L. I., May 28.—Colin, James R. Keene's undefeated champion 2-year-old of last year, and winner of the Withers stakes his only start this year, has broken down. He worked a wonderful one and one-fourth miles this morning in 2:05, said to be the fastest time ever worked by a horse. He stepped the mile in 1:38 1-5, and the mile and a furlong in 1:52. Colin has broken down in both forelegs, and it is doubtful if he will race again this year. He was, according to horsemen, the greatest race horse seen in this country.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Engineer Who Killed Conrad in Wilderness Is Set Free.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May [illegible] J. Trumper, a young civil engineer of Cleveland, Ohio, was today acquitted of a charge of murder at the assizes.

Trumper was accused of having killed James Coleman in the northern wilds of British Columbia.

The story developed by the evidence was one of incompatibility of temper between men in the wilderness. The two were living in a cabin with J. Stansfield. The latter returned one night from hunting to find that Coleman had been killed. Trumper was later arrested.

The defense by Trumper was that he had killed Coleman with a single blow from a mallet on the head. The blow was delivered while Coleman was reaching for a rifle with which to shoot Trumper. The jury believed Trumper's story.

CHORUS CONCERT A SUCCESS

Musical Club Achieves Triumph in Last Concert of Season.

With the Dawkins violin quartet of Denver as the chief outside attraction, the Colorado Springs Musical club closed its season of excellent concerts last night with a chorus concert in Perkins hall before a large audience of appreciative and representative music lovers.

The concert was notable in that it marked the first appearance of the club chorus in the regular annual concert and gave Colorado Springs people their first opportunity of hearing "Phaudrig Crohoore," an Irish ballad set to music by C. Villiers Stanford, which has come to be recognized as one of the greatest of modern works for chorus.

The occasion also marked the first appearance of the Dawkins quartet, a unique organization of instrumentalists excelling in the lighter chamber music. The quartet was given an ovation by local music lovers and will be welcomed on future visits to the city.

In the chorus work "Daybreak" by Eaton Fanning, proved the favorite with the audience. An encore was declined. The work of the singers in this number demonstrated that Dr. Woolsey, the director, had trained them carefully with due regard to the finer ensemble effects. It will be a source of gratification to local music lovers to know that the chorus will be maintained as a permanent adjunct of the musical club.

HOLDS WILL VALID

Bertha Dolbeer's Legacy Will Go to Her Companion.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Final disposition of the Bertha Dolbeer will contest was made today by the state supreme court. The decision of the superior court, in which Horatio Schander, an uncle of Bertha Dolbeer, was contestant, was affirmed and the will therefore will be considered valid as written. Miss Dolbeer's will left her entire fortune to Miss Etta M. Warren, her friend and traveling companion, who was with her at the Waldorf hotel in New York when she committed suicide by hurling herself from an upper window to the pavement of the court yard. It was charged by the contestant that undue influence was exerted by Miss Warren, when the will in her favor was made.

ATTACK RUSSIAN AGENT

Desperadoes Enter Residence and Severely Wound Official.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 28.—Dispatches from Teheran received by the foreign office state that an armed attack was made on the official residence in that city of the Russian financial agent, M. Ostrogradski, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and that the Russian offical was dangerously wounded.

Three unknown men made their way into his residence and encountering M. Ostrogradski fired a number of shots at him, one of the bullets striking him in the loin. Though badly wounded, he managed to fight off his assailants who continued to fire at him. They then made a pretense to search for valuables, but fled at the first approach of help.

FLOOD BURSTS DAM.

Three Lives Lost and Great Damage Done on C. P. R. R.

TORONTO, Ont., May 28.—A special from Port Arthur today says the civic dam on Current river burst yesterday, causing a disastrous flood. The loss of three lives and a money loss estimated at $500,00 is reported. A Canadian Pacific freight train pulling into Port Arthur ran on a submerged track, the engine was overturned and Engineer Savage, Fireman McBridge and a brakeman who was on the engine were pinned under the wreckage and drowned. The Canadian Pacific Railway company will be the heaviest loser, several miles of track having been washed away.

ARE GIVEN COMMISSIONS

Captains Wainwright and Schroeder Are Now Acting Admirals.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Roosevelt today signed and the navy department forwarded to Captains Richard Wainwright, commanding the second division and Seaton Schroeder, commanding the fourth division, respectively, of the Atlantic fleet, commissions as acting rear admirals.

This will give them rank in consonance with their present duty and permit them to wear the uniform and fly the flag of a rear admiral.

BRYAN HAS WEST VIRIGINA

Democrats Elect Delegates to National Convention and Instruct Them for Peerless One.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 28.—At the largest Democratic state convention in West Virginia in many years held here today four delegates-at-large were selected for the national convention at Denver and three candidates were nominated for the state supreme court of appeals. The delegates were instructed for Bryan.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved: That we, the Democrats of the state of West Virginia, in convention assembled, hereby renew our pledges to Democratic principles and reiterate our allegiance to the fundamental doctrine of equal rights to all, special privileges to none as the basic foundation of free government and we believe that a return to these principles in their purity is the only way to perpetuate a government of all the people and for all the people.

DISCUSS TAFT CAMPAIGN.

Managers Talk With Roosevelt on Program for Convention.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Arthur I. Vorys and Frank Hitchcock, campaign managers for Secretary Taft, spent almost an hour today with President Roosevelt in going over some of the details of the Taft program at the Chicago convention. It is understood that one of the principal matters discussed was that of selecting a man to nominate the secretary. It was said by the managers that no decision had been reached. Several names are under consideration, those most prominently mentioned being Senator Dolliver of Iowa and Representative Burton of Ohio.

Secretary Taft, who also was at the White House today, said that he was engaged on more important questions than that of who should present his name to the convention.

BANDITS BOUND-OVER

Desperadoes Who Looted Wells Fargo Safe Held for Trial.

PUEBLO, May 28.—A special from Raton, N. M., says:

Henry Stone and Henry Farr, charged with complicity in the French, N. M., robbery of the Wells Fargo Express company, when $35,000 was taken on Thursday, May 14, were bound over to the September term of the district court today. Stone was held under $10,000 bond and Farr's bond was fixed at $5,000.

The testimony of Mrs. H. O. Smith, wife of Station Agent Smith, who identified the bandit, was responsible for Stone being held. Farr was held principally on the testimony of two boys who identified the horse ridden by one of the bandits as belonging to him. The third man wanted for complicity in the robbery is believed to be "Nigger Arkansas," a bad man who has been around French and Springer during the last two months.

PUEBLO, May 28.—Thirty carmen of the Missouri Pacific went out on strike here today, practically all the local men being included in the strike. The strikers claim that they received orders from St. Louis.

PUPILS STAMPEDE IN TERROR

Pistol Shots Cause Hundreds of Children to Rush for Doors in Fear of Bomb.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Rumors that an Italian secret society had formed a plot to dynamite the Dante school at Ewing and Desplaines streets, caused a panic this afternoon among the 1,700 pupils of the school. About 600 of the children became panic-stricken and fled from the building. Many of them were knocked down in the rush for the doors and slightly bruised, but none of them was seriously injured.

For several days there have been rumors that the school might be blown up with dynamite. There has never been any foundation for the stories, but they have served to make the pupils and their parents somewhat nervous. This afternoon somebody fired a number of shots in an alley adjoining the school and instantly hundreds of children left their seats and ran for the doors. The teachers finally managed to quiet the children, but not before several hundred of them had fled into the street.

IN DANGER OF BRIGANDS

American Car in Paris Race Has Hard Time in Siberia.

PARIS, May 28.—A special dispatch to the Matin from Nikolsk, dated May 28, says:

The American car in the New York to Paris automobile race continued along the tracks of the Trans-Siberian railway, having had a narrow escape from being run down by an express train and by falling over a precipice 200 feet in descent owing to the subsidence of badly laid ballast. Spies of brigand bands that have been captured recently state that the automobilists are in danger of being attacked, as it is believed by the brigands that they are very rich.

The German car signaled that it was 60 miles in the lead at noon today, today.

Many Rebels Killed and Heart of Revolt Is Broken.

SEOUL, Korea, May 28.—According to a military report a total of 38 engagements were fought during the month of May in the campaign of the Japanese forces against Korean insurgents and rioters. Five hundred and forty-nine insurgents were killed, many wounded and a large number captured. The Japanese lost 30 killed. The insurgent element has been in provinces of Ham-Kyongo and Kwang-Kando. Many of the Korean insurgents who have given the Japanese administration much trouble are surrendering. In fact the insurrectionary movement has lost all semblance of organization. At the Japanese military headquarters it is confidently predicted that the disturbing element will be subdued within 60 days.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

THERE has been some slight consideration of names for the Vice Presidency on the Republican side, but very little on the Democratic. One can see why this is so, for it makes little difference who is nominated for Vice President on a ticket that is so certain to be beaten as Mr. Bryan's this year. But it might make a difference in the vote if the Democrats were to name a strong man for the second place. They have been singularly unfortunate, to put it mildly—singularly stupid, would perhaps be truer—in their nominations for this place for several campaigns. Not since the campaign of 1888 have they named a man for this office fit for the Presidency. And even then, Mr. Thurman was at the time so old that he was hardly equal to the duties of the second place, let alone the strenuous task of a President. Adlai Stevenson was nominated in 1892 and 1900, and one shudders to think of the consequences if he had come into the higher office. Sewall of Maine was the candidate in 1896—a makeshift candidate intended to placate a faction and maybe get a few votes in eastern states where Bryan was weak. The culmination of folly came last time, when old Mr. Grosvenor Davis was put on the ticket—a man over eighty, who had never shown even in his prime any signs of statesmanlike quality.

This year the name of John Mitchell, the labor leader, was mentioned for a time, but we have not seen it lately. His nomination would undoubtedly bring some votes to the ticket that otherwise it would not get, but it would be made so palpably for the purpose of catching the "labor vote" that it would alienate thousands of ordinarily Democratic voters, and might not have the tremendous effect it was intended to produce in labor circles. If the Democrats could get a man like Johnson to take the second place, it would certainly give strength to their ticket. His name, however, has not been even mentioned, so far as we have seen, except as a rival for Mr. Bryan; and after what he has said about the Peerless One, it is not likely that the latter would consent to run with him.

On the Republican side there is more material of fairly good quality available. If Mr. Fairbanks will take it, the party can not do better than give him the nomination. He is a man of Presidential size, and fully equal to the responsibilities that might be placed upon him. None of the other men named as "favorite sons" for the Vice Presidency is on the same plane with him; but two or three of them are men of respectable attainments and some experience in statecraft, though not of national prominence. It would be a pity to nominate a second-rate man for this high office, but Americans in the past have often shown a capacity of measuring up to the requirements of places larger than they had been expected to fill, and it might be so again. General Arthur was regarded by the majority of citizens outside his own state as merely a local spoilsman, put on the ticket to placate the Stalwart element and secure the support of Conkling and his friends; but he turned out to be an executive of the first rank. Governor Guild or ex-Senator Murphy might turn out the same way upon occasion; but of the others mentioned, Governor Willson would not do at all, and George Knight would be ridiculous. That is one of the best places in the world not to fill with any man who is simply an eloquent talker.

It seems likely that both conventions will name for the second place men satisfactory to the candidates for President. This would be contrary to precedent, but it would tend to secure harmony of administration. But unless nominations are all determined on in advance of the conventions, the struggle for the second nomination may be more interesting in each than that for first place.

Last Saturday it is credibly reported in the papers Governor Johnson, who has been taking the air and the water at Old Point Comfort, turned two separate double somersaults off the diving-board at the swimming pool of the Chamberlin hotel. This has put fighting life into his canvass, as the results of his visits since to Georgian and Alabamian towns abundantly show. The Democrats haven't had an athletic candidate since the memory of living man. What an attraction for the new Madison in Democratic Manhattan Beach if the Governor could be induced to throw a somersault there some afternoon during the convention! The Eagle performance (Cleveland) is a mint of money in the suggestion, but we shan't throw a cent for it.

The Board of Aldermen at Chelsea, the Massachusetts city which was so nearly destroyed by fire not long since, have retired to-day all other licenses of junk dealers. Investigation has shown that the inspection of refuse and especially of old rags, in one of the new-fashioned sorting houses, started the fire, and they believe it was the cause of the recent fire there. They do not propose to have any more of it, and the junk dealer is henceforth tabu. It is noteworthy that similar conditions have long existed at Lawrence, and that four-fifths of the fires in the city originate in the same direction. Not long ago the insurance companies doubled the rates on rags, and since then there has not been a fire. This is possibly a mere coincidence, but then again, maybe it isn't.

We do not suppose the attempt to get Harry Thaw free is yet ended. It is perfectly natural for his poor mother to try every means in her power to get him out of confinement. For the interests of the state, however, it is highly desirable that he should be kept in. The moral effect of acquitting him on the ground of insanity for having murdered Stanford White, and then freeing him on the ground that he had recovered his sanity, would be as bad as possible. The State of New York has set a good example. If insanity is pleaded as a defense for murder, then the insane person should be shut up in an asylum. There ought to be no third alternative.

One of the most hopeful persons in the Democratic party is the (more or less) Hon. "Roosy" Conners, state chairman of New York. In a recent interview he stated his view that the chances for his party this year are better than for a long time past. "Look at it—three hundred thousand men out of employment! What could be more cheerful?"—This is the substance of his talk. Mr. Conners evidently learned early the great Democratic feat of turning calamity into capital.

To the average constituent of the Congressman at Washington it does seem that there are things more important than an immediate adjournment. To be sure, a number of them are slated for orations next Saturday; but they could go and come back, if necessary. Nobody has said so yet, but we suspect that Washington is beginning to get hot—hot in weather, we mean, not only allegorically. That will take the starch out of Congress quicker than anything else in the world.

If LaFollette can keep in the foreground enough, it would not be surprising to see him as a candidate four years hence, but not of the Republican party. We know of no reason now to call him a Republican, except that he was elected Governor, and then Senator, in Wisconsin on the Republican ticket.

It is alleged by the water commissioner in the Denver district that the rain a few days ago did not raise the Platte river an appreciable fraction of an inch. It must have gone into the ground, for there was as much as we had here, and it did all the more good on that account.

Mr. Bryan says there is no real Reformer in the Republican ranks but LaFollette, and he would like to see him named for President. No doubt he would—for the same reason most Republicans want Bryan for the Democratic candidate.

The esteemed Springfield Republican asks plaintively, "Will the hazing of Beveridge never end?" It will probably end when he ceases to be a Freshman.

FROM OTHER PENS

CAN'T MAKE CONGRESS WORK.

From the Birmingham Ledger.

The President may scold Congress, but he can't make it pass laws.

UNNECESSARY EFFORT.

From the Toledo Blade.

We read of a young wife who bound and gagged herself to keep her husband home at night. But wouldn't merely gagging herself be sufficient?

IMPERILING NATIONAL RESOURCES.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Until we learn to put a stop to the fires which annually consume more lumber than we market; until we learn to use the powers that now go to waste and to conserve the fuel supplies that are fast disappearing or being destroyed; until we learn to take the precautions that alone will save vast stretches of land from becoming arid wastes through flood and denudation; until we learn—in a word—to apply to national affairs the common sense which we daily employ in private business concerns, we shall fail in our duty to humanity.

THE PEACE PROPAGANDA.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Men may differ as to the extent of the obligation resting upon modern nations to engage in the terrible competition of armaments, and even the friends of peace may not think alike on the proposition that "the surest way to preserve peace is to prepare for war;" but there can be no two opinions about the wisdom and the importance of such conferences as those now in session in Philadelphia and that about to be held at Lake Mohonk. Conferences at The Hague and tribunals for international arbitration would be of very little use to the world if there were no strong peace sentiment among the people.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

From the New York World.

What is there in American history to suggest that the vice presidency is a small man's office? Twenty-six men have been elected to it. Eight of these, a fraction less than one-third, have subsequently become President—Adams, Jefferson and Van Buren by election, Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson, Arthur and Roosevelt by death of their predecessors. Mr. Roosevelt was re-elected after serving the term of his predecessor, making four of the twenty-six so promoted by the public vote. Of the eighteen Vice Presidents who have not afterward become President not more than four or five could have been called small or obscure candidates when named: George Clinton, Calhoun and Breckinridge bulked big in the political history of their times; Johnson, Colfax and Wilson were widely known popular idols; Aaron Burr and Elbridge Gerry are in their very different ways not likely to be forgotten.

"KNOCKING" THE COAST.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

The eastern papers are never so happy as when they are "knocking" the Pacific coast, and they seize eagerly upon any excuse for doing so. The fact that there was a single instance of overcharging in a Santa Barbara restaurant during the visit of the fleet has afforded a text for endless editorials designed to carry the impression that California's welcome to the fleet had a purely commercial inspiration, and within the past few days the fact that the very natural desire to see the fleet was conceded by the authorities at Washington has been seized upon as a bit of evidence to prove that Secretary Metcalf was doing politics when the concessions were made. It is a nasty attitude to assume toward the coast and can only be answered by asserting what is the truth, that the people of California have expended more in their efforts to show the men of the navy how much they appreciate their visit than the presence of the fleet can possibly bring back to them. It also invites the taunt from this side that the reception the navy usually gets west of the Sierras is about what it gets in the cold shoulder.

ALL DEPENDS ON "US."

From Puck.

The gentlemen responsible for the "Let Us Alone" slogan should be extra fastidious in the choice of their associates. They owe it to themselves to establish above suspicion the character of "Us." If by "Us" is meant honest men, attending to their business in a way interfering with no other man's rights, "Us" emphatically should be "let alone." If under the banner of "Us" march men or interests whose speciality is not honesty, whose business practice are contrary to law and to the national welfare, and who lustily join in the cry of "Let Us Alone" because they hope thereby to scare off pursuit and possible punishment, such types of "Us" should positively not be "let alone," no matter how loud they or their hirelings scream. Men whose grievance is real, whose legitimate business has been put in jeopardy by fool legislation, or threatened by blackmail thinly disguised, may safely rely on American common sense to fight their wrongs, but such men should bear everlastingly in mind that they suffer not fundamentally from crude and hasty legislation, but inevitably, and in company with everyone else in the United States from the reckless, flim-flam, public-be-damned methods of the men or interests that the law for the first time is now trying to check. These men and these methods are what now give occasion for the cry in good faith of "Let Us Alone"; not the more recent attempts of justice to cope with and to control them. It is not essential to the average man's daily existence that the forest grafters of the west be "let alone." It is not a requirement for the average man's prosperity that the parties of a secret rebate, which puts small shippers in the poor house, be "let alone." In order to safeguard the average man's pursuit in life it is not at all important that light-fingered financiers, private speculators with depositors' or investors' money, be "let alone." No man, no matter who he is, has rights so vital that to perpetuate them, injustice, oppression and crime must be "let alone." No "Let Us Alone" man, who is on the level, can afford to have a crook or a hypocrite for a side partner.

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood

The employer of men, whether he be a captain of industry or a small retailer, is always confronted with the problem of how to infuse into his employes the feeling that they are part of his business. If the steel magnate accomplishes so much with the heads of his departments, he has not only done away with the machine and routine evils of the salaried manager, assistants, clerks, etc., but he has established a system that means success.

The difficulty of such a course increases as the responsibility placed upon an employe is narrowed. The smaller the office, the greater becomes the chance that the man will fall into the rut of the automaton. Let the small dealer get his office boy to feel that he is a human being with a scope of action, which of course, can not be greater than his position, and the latter is bound to take an increasing interest in the duties of his department. The very notion that the province of the office boy be styled a "department" may be scoffed at by many quasi men of affairs; but I believe that it is just this lack of importance that is attached to seemingly small things which is the remote cause of failures.

And it is entirely up to the superintendent, the manager, the president, or the board of directors if this human side of business does not take precedence over a mercenary desire for a pay envelope. The work of this class of employes must of necessity be disagreeable. When pay day comes they are joyous. Not that a good and satisfactory week's work has been done, but because their salary is ready at the cashier's window. Let the bookkeeper or porter or whatever he may be put not only his time into the job, but also his heart.

IOWA HOSPITALITY.

Quite a number of our people attended quarterly at Sugar Creek and seven hungry ones stopped by the way and partook of the bountiful dinner at the David Stanley home. It held five old time quarterly, and when it comes to feeding Al Johnson, Jerrie Mendenhall, Clark Brown and their wives, and Emma White, besides other visitors, it is no small undertaking.

Uncle Stephen Sparks and wife had a big contract on hand yesterday, feeding the two preachers, W. D. Merryman and Clark Brown and their wives, but they did it well, to the enjoyment of all. They have been tried to such hospitality before.

WHERE THE GRASS GROWS GREEN

Which me wife is to a party and the house is all me own,
I slip into the kitchen, where I sit and drink alone,
I forget me billion dollars and the places I have seen
Since I played a bye in Ireland, where the grass grows green.

Sure, we daughter Kate is stylish an anny gurrl in town;
You should see the jools and bangles on her latest Paris gown;
But there's days I'd like to watch her, a barefoot country queen,
Tossin' hay on Wexford hillsides, where the grass grows green.

They call me "fightin' Terence," sayin' Wall Street knows me grip;
Be it Boord of Trade or politics, me fingers liver slip.
Then I mind me oak skillalah, that I swing wid elbows bare,
Breakin' heads ay County Corrk byes at a Wexford cattle fair.

Well, Broadway is a diff'rent place from Ballnycarrig Bridge,
And Murray Hill is diff'rent from Enniscorthy Ridge,
And I wish that I could cut away the years that lies between
And be a ragged young gossoon where the grass grows green.

BIRTHDAYS OF PRESIDENTS.

Question of Celebrating Them Caused Much Criticism Years Ago.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

The question as to what honor was due the president of the United States on his birthday gave some concern to those citizens who were becoming intensely democratic under the influence of Jefferson and his friends and particularly at that time, of the French revolution.

Washington was criticised for an excessive tone of formality, for exclusiveness in his social conduct, and for encouraging a spirit of homage to his person. It had already become a custom to honor him on the 22nd of February with formal calls, the firing of cannon, militia parades, and other birthday honors.

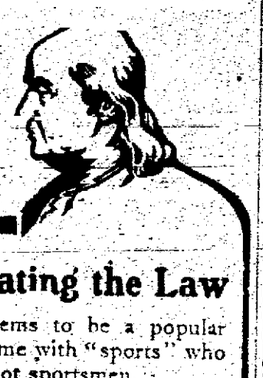
But when, in the third year of his first administration, the committee which had charge of the affairs of the assembly that is the social managers of the Almack's of Philadelphia—agreed that the annual ball should take place on the night of the president's birthday, there was much disagreeable talk concerning their disposition to adopt royal usages and to convert the president into a social monarch.

Little attention, however, was given to these objections, and the ball took place. It was said to have been marked by a brilliant display of beauty. Washington and his wife were present, together with John Adams, as vice president; Governor Mifflin, Speaker Turnbull of congress, and all the leading members of the national government. In the following year another assembly ball was given at Oeller's hotel. Washington attended it, and there with his wife, he received congratulations on his happy entrance into his sixty-second year.

THE PERFECT BAKED APPLE.

From the Delineator for April.

When the skins are thin and of a deep red color I frequently do not pare the apples, but at all times I am careful to remove all the core, especially every bit of the lining of the seed cells, and to bake them in granite or earthen, never in tin, as tin gives them an unpleasant flavor and a dingy color. Fill the core cavities with sugar, heaped or scant according to the tartness of the apples; add only a few grains of salt, and sufficient water to half cover the apples. Bake in a quick oven and baste frequently.



Beating the Law

Seems to be a popular pastime with "sports" who are not sportsmen.

There's an added zest, they explain, in playing hide-and-seek with the game-warden without being "It."

But—

They are beating their own game—these Game Hogs that Emerson Hough so picturesquely describes in this week's SATURDAY EVENING POST. It's amazing to reflect that a few thousand American Game Hogs are likely, in a few years, to make sport impossible for real sportsmen and for themselves.

LFIES ANSWER IN CORAY CASE

Attorney Price Asks That Suit Be Dismissed and City Reimbursed for Costs.

City Attorney W. B. Price yesterday filed an answer in the district court to the suit of E. G. Coray for approximately $3,000, for alleged services as superintendent of construction of the city hall building. Coray was building inspector of Colorado Springs during the construction of the city hall, and the wrangle of many years' standing between him and the city regarding the accounts of his office, and the amount he claimed as salary, has not been definitely settled.

In his answer Attorney Price contends that at the time Coray claims to have been superintendent of construction of the city hall building, he was city building inspector, drawing a salary, and that his alleged employment as construction superintendent was against public policy and void.

Furthermore, according to the answer, there were no funds in the city treasury, nor was any appropriation made for the reimbursement of a construction superintendent, and Coray, knowing this, volunteered his services.

In conclusion the city attorney asks that the case be dismissed and the city be reimbursed for its costs.

A LESSON TO VANDALS

Woman Forced to Erase Her Name From Ute Pass Rocks.

Another lesson in preserving the scenic beauty of Colorado Springs' natural attractions was given recently by the Chamber of Commerce when a letter was sent to a lady supposed to be in Beaver Falls, Pa., requesting that she remove her name and address from some rocks in Ute pass. A letter was received in reply yesterday in which the writer stated that the landscape had been duly scrubbed.

This action was started by the Chamber of Commerce years ago and has been commended by every city in the country having scenic attractions. A careful watch is kept for all offenders and prosecutions will be pushed in the event the defacement is not removed or amends made in some manner.

AUGUST ZOBEL CAUGHT

MUST APPEAR IN LEADVILLE COURT AND OBEY RULING.

Is Accused of Extracting $17,000 Worth of Fanny Rawlins Ore. Pleintiffs Are Springs Men.

August Zobel, a wealthy mine operator of Leadville, against whom the Fanny Rawlins Mining company of this city, which operates in the Leadville district, secured a judgment of $17,000 last March for ore alleged to have been wrongfully extracted by Zobel from the tunnel workings of the Fanny Rawlins mine, was apprehended in St. Louis a few days ago and brought back to Leadville, where he has been placed under bond of $5,000 either to comply with the order of the court or be cited for contempt. Zobel, it is claimed, fled from this state to avoid obeying the court's order, and the Fanny Rawlins officers, all of whom are Colorado Springs and Colorado City men, are pleased at the prospect of recovering the amount of their judgment.

After long-drawn-out litigation, the Fanny Rawlins company proved in the district court at Leadville that Zobel and associates, working the St. Louis property immediately west of the Fanny Rawlins on Breece mountain, had tunneled east into the Fanny Rawlins and extracted approximately $17,000 worth of ore belonging to the plaintiffs. Accordingly a judgment for that amount was given in favor of the company, and Zobel, who claimed that a portion of the $17,000 belonged in trust to his associates, was ordered to pay the amount into court. Instead of complying with the ruling of the district judge, he left the state.

Following are the officers and directors of the Fanny Rawlins company: J. A. Himebaugh, president; T. S. Brigham, vice president; W. C. Frost, secretary-treasurer; C. B. Ferrin and N. B. Hames.

SPEND DECORATION DAY IN BEAUTIFUL NORTH CHEYENNE

The Park commissioners have repaired and remodeled the building known as the pavilion a short distance up North Cheyenne from the car terminus, adding a substantial addition to the rear of it and Mr. John E. Lavely the popular caterer of Bruin Inn will occupy it as a refreshment parlor for the benefit of the public in general. This is one of the prettiest little spots around Colorado Springs and as the surroundings are particularly adapted for picnic parties, it will certainly prove second only in popularity to the romantic little hostelry, Bruin Inn. Everyone who has ever visited Bruin Inn can tell you of the splendid hospitality of that place and Mr. Lavely will conduct the pavilion along the same lines. The scenery in the immediate vicinity is simply magnificent, towering rocks, as gorgeous and as inspiring as anything within reach of the city, well wooded with pine, spruce and other beautiful mountain timber, and watered by Cheyenne creek a typical mountain stream. Tins for ice cream, pots and cups for coffee are furnished free at the pavilion and all kinds of cold lunches ice cream, fruits, candies, popcorn and other eatables may be had. If you wish to spend a quiet, pleasant Memorial day take an early car to the canon, a leisurely stroll up to the pavilion, making this place your headquarters, secure your lunch and spend a quiet restful day among the pines. You will enjoy it and it will do you good to get away from the busy humdrum of the city, even if it is for only a day.

WATER SITUATION UNCHANGED

Electric Company Kept All Lights Going Last Night.

Although the Colorado Springs Electric company's plant northeast of the city was heavily taxed, the company was able to furnish light in all parts of Colorado Springs and vicinity last night. The water situation remains practically the same.

Manager E. P. Dillon of the Pikes Peak Hydro-Electric company announced yesterday that the transformers being installed in the company's substation on West Cucharas street will all be in by the middle of next week. These transformers are for the new 75 ampere street arc lamps. As soon as the unshipped parts of the lamps arrive, the company will at once begin substituting them for the present, old style lights, which work will take only a few days.

WRITES OF WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. White Has Story in the Modern Woodman.

In the June number of The Modern Woodman, appears an article on "Modern Woodmen as Life Savers" by Dr. John E. White of this city. In this article, Dr. White deals with the question of the "Great White Plague" in relation to the recent decision of the Modern Woodmen to establish their national sanatorium in Colorado Springs. He shows the ravages of the disease, tells of the means that are being used to fight it and speaks of the beneficial effects that may be accomplished through the new national home.

According to the report of Treasurer H. E. Murphy, the sanatorium fund has increased about $1,000 since the April report. It is now nearly $52,000. This is the last report that will be made before the head camp meeting at Peoria, June 16 to 20, at which time plans for the sanatorium will be decided upon.

TRULY FLATTERING

Under the heading "Printed as Received," a South African journal publishes a report written by a native of a concert given by the Fauresmith native choir at the Wesleyan church. Koffyfontein, in his report the contributor says: "Among the choir Miss Nora Monche was the best songster, and her cheeks were like an apple, her mouth was like a cellar, her eyes were like an owl at night, her hair was soft and curly, her ears were like shamrock flowers, but she looked like a crane and her name was Jane."

Some people can't stand prosperity because it refuses to stand for them.

CURED OF FOOTBALL MANIA.

Woman Relieved by Removal of a Cyst From the Brain.

It will not be safe, after this, to say you are "just crazy over football" if, on trial for your liberty, you are obliged to face a board of alienists. The American Neurological association, in thirty-fourth annual meeting assembled at the College of Physicians, yesterday heard from Dr. Charles K. Mills and Dr. Charles H. Frazier, of the University of Pennsylvania, how a woman, whose enthusiasm for football became an actual mania, had finally become irresponsible at one of the games, and upon being operated upon in the university hospital, was found to have a cyst in her brain three inches in diameter.

"She couldn't get enough of football," said Dr. Mills, reviewing the history of the case, "and she went at every opportunity. She attended a game here; then she went to New York for more. She went to the Harvard-Indian game in Boston, and rushed back here again for the Army and Navy game. And every time she went to a football game she would become very nauseated and dizzy and would become partially disorientated.

She was so ill at the last Army and Navy game that she attempted to leave the stand, and, in heading for the aisles ran into a post. Her symptoms were left lateral homonymous hemianopsia and hemiataxia, especially marked in her upper extremities."

The general depression noticeable in some quarters at the close of the football season was particularly marked in this victim of the new "dementia." After her operation her recovery was rapid and virtually complete, so far as can be positively ascertained, before the beginning of the next football season.

As this is the only case of its kind yet run to cover by the proper authorities, too generally deductions cannot be made from it. But it is possible that suspicious cases will be rigorously watched when the season opens, and persons finding themselves victims of an uncontrollable fondness for football may be subjected to examinations in the interest of science.

FOR SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER.

From the Boston Herald.

There is nothing pleasanter than a Sunday night supper or high tea. Let each make out his list of preferred dishes: Lobster salad and brown bread toast; cold game and celery salad; oysters in their season, cooked as they can be cooked only in this country; Mr. Quilp's ironical recommendation of something light and palatable to Mrs. Quilp and her visitors—a cool, refreshing lobster, for there are those who prefer the naked beauty of the lobster to its meretricious disguises and adornments; cold corned beef of the first quality—how seldom it can be obtained at the most pretentious inn; cold chicken and asparagus, with a sauce of a dozen ingredients, one of them the dried Italian mushroom. The pleasure of this meal is not merely in the sensual appeal of food. There is the thought of relaxation, of informality, whetted by the knowledge of an impending and black Monday—for all Mondays are black. Formal dress should be discouraged. There should be an outward, visible distinction between the meal of unrestrained enjoyment and that of conventional ceremony and dull pomp.

THE GENTLE CYNIC.

Foote, and many stores will remain closed throughout the day. Veterans and civilians will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in front of the Bancroft school, whence they will proceed to Fairview cemetery, where a short program appropriate to the occasion will be given, after which the graves of the nation's dead will be decorated. The right of the authorities to enforce the impounding ordinance will probably be settled in court. A few days ago the police impounded a horse belonging to Philip Halderman, which they found at large. The owner refuses to pay the $1 fee required for the release of the animal, and threatens to bring a replevin suit to secure the horse. In case he does, a test case will probably be made.

Chief of Police E. N. Wolfe yesterday arrested a white man and a colored woman on the charge of adultery. He declares that he will keep up an incessant war on all such cases and that he will prosecute them to the limit.

Battle Creek Specialist Offers Good Suggestion To Dyspeptics.

"It is seldom that a great specialist will give away the secrets of his profession, but occasionally we find one who is more liberal.

A noted specialist on stomach disorders, dyspepsia and appendicitis says: "I always prescribe the following with the strongest success, for indigestion, acute or chronic dyspepsia, sour stomach, distress after eating, such as heart palpitation, shortness of breath, constipation, depression, headache and biliousness. These simple but powerfully blended ingredients can usually be obtained at any leading drug store, or the druggist can obtain them from wholesale firms who supply the profession generally with pure extracts and essences. Mix in a bottle two ounces syrup of Ginger, one ounce Compound essence Cardiol and two ounces essence of Pepsin. Shake well and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal, or before, to excite the appetite, if necessary. For costiveness, a dose at night will do much good. For children, who have stomachache, take this freely. Adults can find nothing that will do so much permanent good and at the same time give prompt relief from distress."

A DEEP MYSTERY SOLVED.

Women Blinded by Science.

The Doctor writes his prescription in Latin and the patient shuts her eyes in what she is swallowing. She takes that much on faith. If it should cure her she doesn't know what cured her. If the prescription injures her she doesn't know what did the injury. The physician is experimenting with different prescriptions all the time. Sometimes his medicine is successful in the case but often not. This mystery of a concealed prescription is intended to mystify and to blind the patient. One physician of wide experience and national reputation does not believe in mystifying the public, nor does he grasp at the stars, but believes that Nature provides that which is necessary for our health and happiness.

When the womanly system is deranged beyond the stage where it will respond to sunshine, good air, cheerfulness and proper rest; when the balance of health is seriously disturbed this doctor believes that Nature has placed at your hand the balance of power for good. Hidden in our American forests are many plants which correct and cure those distressing ailments which cause women to suffer with backache, bearing-down pains, pain in the back or front of the head, nervousness and lassitude. Most all women who love Nature, who like to wander through the woods, have at one time or another picked the beautiful blossom of the Lady's Slipper (Cypripedium). This is not only a beautiful but a very useful plant. The root of this plant when treated properly with glycerine to extract its medicinal virtues is "valuable in all cases of nervous excitability or irritability," says Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D. Another authority, Prof. E. Ellingwood, M. D., says of this plant: "Exercises special influence upon nervous conditions depending upon disorders of the female organs." Another plant which is frequently found in our American forests is Helonias, or Unicorn root. The AMERICAN DISPENSATORY says of this plant, that it "possesses a decidedly beneficial influence in an enfeebled condition of the general system, with weakness or dull pain in the renal or lumbo-sacral (small of the back) region. In diseases of the womanly organs it is one of our most valuable agents, acting as a uterine tonic, and gradually removing abnormal conditions, while at the same time it imparts tone and vigor to the organs." Hence, it is much used in catarrhal, pelvic drains, irregularities and painful periods. Prof. King further says, of Unicorn root: "A particular phase removed by it is the irritability and despondency that often attends these troubles (referring to the ailments just mentioned)." It has been found especially adapted to those cases in which pelvic fullness and the sensing bearing-down organs feel as if they would fall out of the body."

Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., says, that a combination of the active principles of these two native plants together with Golden Seal root, Black Cohosh and Blue Cohosh roots when extracted by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine of proper strength (which is used instead of alcohol), will almost invariably cure those peculiar weaknesses and maladies incident to women. That is why Dr. Pierce, nearly forty years ago, decided to put up in a ready-to-use form, a "Prescription" which he had found so useful in his large practice.

Dr. Pierce is frank and open about his ready-prepared medicine, called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—he tells just what is contained in it—he says it is not a cure-all, as it serves only a singleness of purpose, being for women's peculiar weaknesses and maladies, the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for the cure of such maladies, all the ingredients of which have the endorsement of leading medical practitioners and writers, as being the very best known remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is advised. All this will be learned to the reader's full satisfaction by perusing a book let of extracts, compiled by Dr. Pierce from standard authorities of the several schools of practice, and which will be sent free to any address on request for same, mailed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

It stands alone, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine for women's peculiar weakness and affections, all the ingredients of which are printed upon the bottle-wrapper in plain English, so that all who take it may know exactly what they are using.

A further reason for the unprecedented popularity of the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce for the special use of women is to be found in the fact that it contains not a drop of alcohol. He does not believe that an alcoholic compound is beneficial for those affections peculiar to women because the after-effect of spirituous wines or alcoholic medicines is harmful for weak, invalid, nervous women.

What "Favorite Prescription" has done for others it will no doubt, do for you, if similarly afflicted, and you give it a fair, fair and faithful trial.

PRESIDENTIAL LINEAGE.

Roosevelt and Washington Not Alone in Well-Do-To Ancestry.

"Old Dominion," in New York Times.

I have recently seen a criticism of a life of Mr. Roosevelt, in which a statement of the author is quoted to the effect that Mr. "Roosevelt is the only President since Washington to have a lineage." Mr. Roosevelt is a descendant in the direct male line of Klaas Martensen Roosevelt, who came from Holland to New Amsterdam in 1649, and on his mother's side of Archibald Bullock, a Revolutionary governor of Georgia. This is certainly a respectable ancestry, of which the fortunate possessor may well be proud and which should properly be mentioned by his biographer. But when that biographer goes on to say that it is superior to the ancestry of all of our presidents since Washington, surely he merely exposes his own ignorance or recklessness.

I do not pretend to know the ancestral lines of all the presidents, but I do know that the majority of them possessed a lineage in no respect inferior to that of Mr. Roosevelt. Some of them rose from the humblest circumstances, but even in these cases I believe that investigation will show an ancestry for everyone to which they were in some degree indebted for the possession of the qualities that made them successful.

In what respect is the lineage of Theodore Roosevelt superior to that of James Madison, or to that of Zachary Taylor? James Taylor, the first of the name in America, came to Virginia in 1635, where he and his son, of the same name were successful planters and prominent in civil and social life. His grandson, Zachary married Elizabeth Lee, daughter of Hancock Lee, a son of Richard Lee, founder of the Lees of Virginia, probably the most famous family in America. The mother of Elizabeth Lee was Sarah Allerton, daughter of Col. Isaac Allerton of Machoatick, by his second wife, Elizabeth Willoughby, and Col. Isaac Allerton was the son of Isaac Allerton of the Mayflower, deputy governor of Plymouth colony, by his second wife, Fear Brewster, daughter of the beloved elder of Plymouth, William Brewster. The son of Zachary was Richard Taylor, a well-known Revolutionary soldier, who married Sarah Dabney Strother, a member of another old and famous Virginia family, and their son was Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States. Surely the President in his veins mingled the blood of Brewster, Allerton, Lee, Willoughby, Strother and Taylor could show a lineage at least equal to that of the descendant of Klaas Roosevelt.

SOME INTELLIGENT ANIMALS.

Stories Which Refute Mr. Burroughs' Denial of Their Reasoning Power.

From the New York Press.

Julian Burroughs, of whose eminence I am profoundly ignorant, says in a sporting periodical that he never encountered a dog, a wild animal or bird story in which any of these animals displayed any reasoning power, nor did he observed reason in any animal. What does he think of the story from the great Darwin: "Mr. C. winged two ducks, which fell on the farther side of the stream. His retriever tried to bring over both at once, but could not succeed; she then, though never before known to ruffle a feather, deliberately killed one bird, brought over the other, and returned for the dead one.

In this case the retriever, after deliberating, broke through habit which is inherited—that of not killing game retrieved—thus showing how strong the reasoning faculty must have been to overcome a fixed habit."

This Mr. Burroughs, after telling a story of a student who stopped a flow of molasses from a hole in a barrel with his hands until a plug could be found, said that no animal would have reasoning power enough to save its food supply by simply holding its paw on a hole through which it was escaping.

Darwin says that he has noticed when a small object is thrown on the ground beyond the reach of an elephant in the zoological gardens, he blows through his trunk on the ground beyond the object, so that the current of wind deflecting on all sides may drive the object within reach.

A noted ethnologist observed in Vienna a bear deliberately making with his paw a current in some water which was close to the bars of his cage so as to draw a piece of floating bread within his reach. These actions of the elephant and bear could hardly be attributed to instinct or inherited habit, as they would be of little use to an animal in a state of nature.

When a female person doesn't want to get married, she is already.

STEERS INTO A TREE.

From the New York Sun.

Frederick Allenger, 14 years old, steered his sled into a tree to avoid hitting a group of his friends while coasting at top speed down Cedar Hill in Central Park on a winter afternoon. He was knocked unconscious, and after being removed to his home, 553 East Eighty-third street, by an ambulance, it was discovered that he had a broken left leg and a gash in his head.

To Policeman Murtagh, of the Arsenal station, he said after being revived:

"Am I the only one that was hurt?" The policeman said "Yes." "That's good," the boy replied. "I knew something would happen if I went ahead, and I didn't want to see any of the boys get hurt on my account."

The sled was smashed.

SERVANT GIRLS AS WIVES

In the kingdom of Prussia servant girls are much sought after as wives. Of the 209,922 spinsters who found husbands in Prussia during the previous year no fewer than 65,403, or 22 per cent, were domestic servants. From 63,463 there is a big drop to 30,169, which is the number of brides recruited from the millinery and tailoring trades. Factory girls are a bad third in the matrimonial race, with 18,115 marriages—just over 6½ per cent. Waitresses can muster only 9,349 brides, or roughly, 3 per cent. At the bottom of the ladder are shopgirls, typewriters and clerks, of whom only 5,268, or less than 2 per cent, succeeded in marrying.

The Mighty Secrets That Lie Buried in the Earth

THE late President Harper of the University of Chicago once said that Babylonian excavations had thrown more light on the Bible and the early history of the Semitic peoples than had come from all other sources in the previous eighteen centuries. In the last few years a great deal of light has also been thrown upon Biblical literature by the study of Egyptian archaeology.

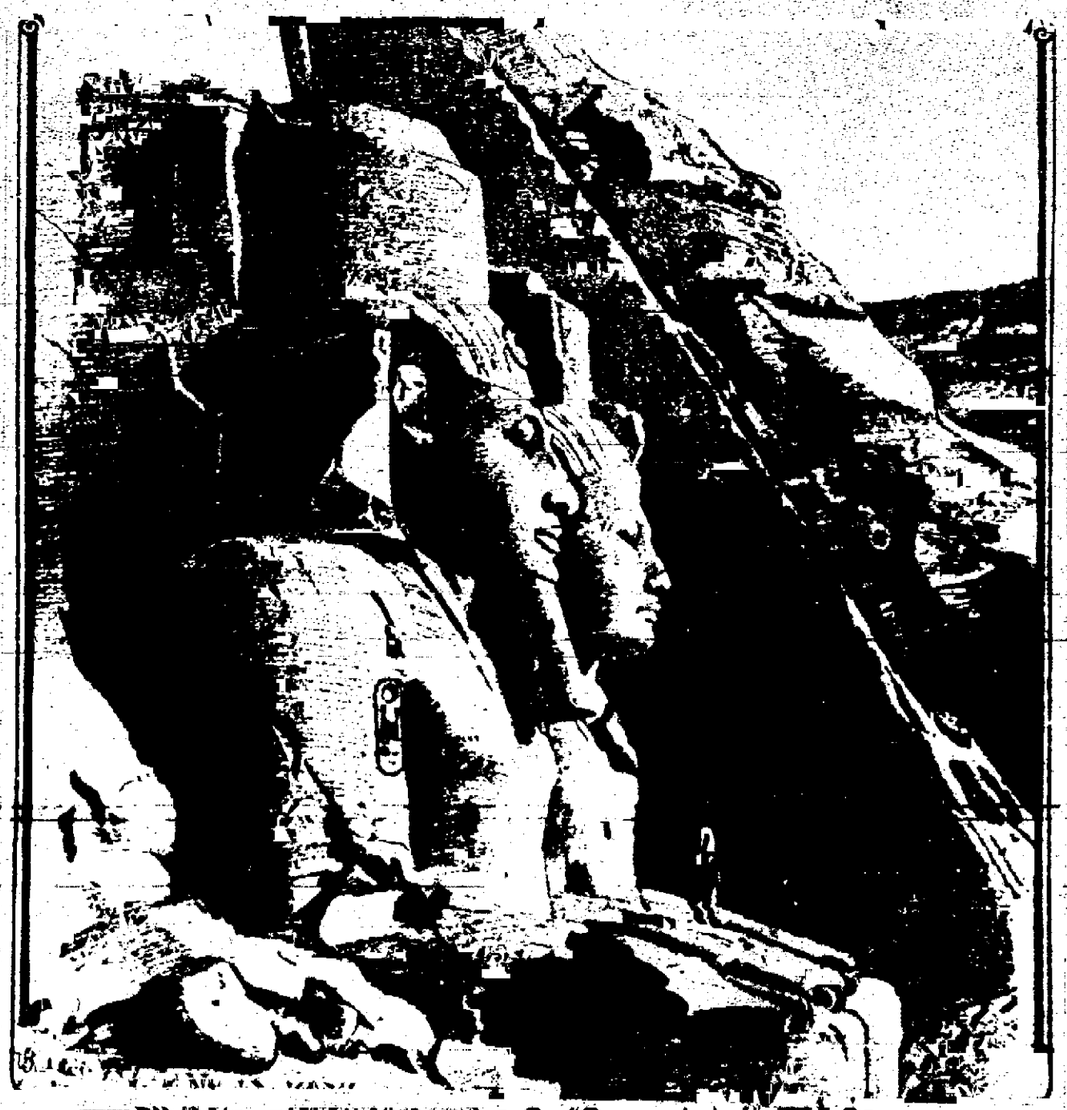
Much that has been learned through excavation and archaeological study in Egypt and Babylonia and Palestine has confirmed the Biblical narratives regarding incidents which have sometimes been called in question. These researches have also brought out facts that reveal how far advanced in knowledge of the arts and of what we now call science some of these people of early days were and how even the "grafters" of our own time had their prototypes in people whose history is [illegible] in monuments erected many centuries before the Christian era.

The first grafter of whom the excavated tablets of ancient Babylonia tell us existed in the time of Hammurabi, king of Shinar and sixth king of Babylon, who is believed to have antedated Abraham. This monarch started the first graft investigation on record. That the woman's rights movement is not very modern is suggested by a marriage contract considerably over 2,000 years old discovered in a tomb near Cairo, Egypt, and now in the collection of the Toledo (O.) Museum of Art. The woman's rights movement had even then acquired much strength, as it was stipulated in this contract that in case of a separation the husband might take but one-third of the valuables the couple should have acquired during the time of their marriage. In other respects the contract indicated that the ancient Egyptians could furnish pointers to the legislators of today as to divorce laws giving the gentle sex the best of a situation.

Six thousand years seem a good long time. It is not such a very great while ago that people generally believed the earth itself to be only that old. But in excavations made within the past five years in the ruins of Bismya, in the heart of Babylonia, a large library of clay tablets was found which told some very interesting things when their inscriptions were deciphered, about what folks did and how they lived some 6,500 years ago. There were several thousand of these primitive books. Many of them were devoted to business transactions. They corresponded to the ledgers, the deeds, the mortgages and other recorded evidences of business operations which are common in our own time. The leading business man of that day sealed his documents with a beautifully engraved seal cylinder, of which he thought so much that he sometimes caused it to be interred with him in his grave. In the larger houses of Bismya a system of drainage was installed which may perhaps be regarded as the direct progenitor of the sewerage system prevalent in city up to date communities of our time. In the houses were bathrooms and cisterns. Toy animals have been found on the floors with which the children of 6,000 years ago amused themselves. They were the Teddy bears of that era. One relic discovered in a Babylonian home is declared to be a baby's rattle.

The original inhabitants of this ancient Babylonian city were of the people called by the archaeologists Sumerians, and somewhere about 4000 B. C. these Sumerians were overrun and conquered by a Semitic tribe. The Semites of that era were the ancestors of the Hebrews. The first Semitic king in Babylonia of whom there is recorded knowledge was Sargon, who ruled about 3800 B. C. The great Hebrew prophet and lawgiver, Moses, did not come on the stage until about 2,500 years later, so that he was comparatively a modern.

Formerly archaeological research in the buried cities of Babylonia, Assyria and Egypt was carried on chiefly by Europeans. Of recent years much has been done in this direction by expeditions under the auspices of American universities, museums and scientific societies. In Egypt as well as in Babylonia some facts have been revealed by these expeditions which are very significant as to the age of the race. It was through explorations conducted in the region of the upper Nile by the Egyptian expedition of the University of Chicago that Egyptian history has been carried back to a date about corresponding to that when Bismya flourished, prior to the Semitic invasion. Professor James H. Breasted was at the head of this expedition. He has made researches which lead him to the conclusion that the Egyptians invented a calendar in 4241 B. C.



PORTRAIT STATUES OF RAMESES II., SIXTY-FIVE FEET IN HEIGHT.

Professor Breasted and his assistants did much valuable work in deciphering inscriptions in the temple of Abu Simbel, on the Nubian Nile, between the first and second cataracts. This is one of the finest of the early Egyptian edifices and is carved out of a mountain side, and it is filled with inscriptions and works of early Egyptian art. In front of it are four statues of Rameses II., measuring each seventy-two feet in height, hewn out of the solid rock, which rises precipitously from the river, and they form an imposing sight. Rameses sits in the ceremonious posture demanded of the divine ruler of the two Egypts, with hands reposing on his knees. He wears the tall double crown symbolic of his double realm of upper and lower Egypt. The crown rests upon a head dress of plaited linen. His beard is artificial and was symbolic. Osiris was believed to have worn such a beard when he ruled among men. The expression of the face is one of kindness and benevolence, combined with that impressive calm, mingled with imperturbability, associated with royalty in the east. Rameses II. has sometimes been supposed to have been the Pharaoh who oppressed the Israelites. It was in connection with archaeological researches in Egypt that the important discovery was recently made of an ancient account of a seven years' famine in which the people under stress of want sold to Pharaoh their lands, their cattle and even themselves in return for the food the monarch had stored up. This afforded new confirmation of the Biblical narrative of Joseph's "corner in wheat."

It was found in a papyrus document whose authorship was evidently about contemporary with the events described. It told how there was a reorganization of the financial system of Egypt incident to a prolonged famine, during which the government sold its stored grain to the people in return for their cattle and their lands, the government afterward increasing greatly in wealth because of the rent it obtained from the lands turned over to Pharaoh in return for food. The document throws much light upon the Biblical narrative.

One of the most interesting of the recent discoveries of the archaeologists pertains to certain curious customs of the people who inhabited the land of Canaan before the Israelites [illegible] it. The records of the Biblical books about them have often been subjected to question. One was the statement that the custom of human sacrifice was in vogue. In the books of Kings it is related how Hiel, the Bethelite, laid the foundations of Jericho on his firstborn son Abiram and set up the gate of the city on his second son Segub. The excavations made by Professor Sellin through the aid of the Palestine Exploration fund on the sites of the ancient cities of Jericho and Gezer have brought to light many evidences of such customs, the ideas of these people about the value of propitiating the spirit of the earth by human sacrifice being like those of the Aztecs of Mexico. The excavators have uncovered the bones of those who were so sacrificed and placed under the foundations or under the corners of houses, together with the sacrificial vessels symbolic of the barbarous act.

Among the American museums which have conducted important exploration work in the archaeological fields of the old world is the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. It was but a short time after Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke took charge as director of this great museum that an Egyptian department was organized with Mr. Alan Marton Lythgoe as curator. Under the latter's direction excavation work was begun in December, 1906, at the Pyramids of Lisht.

Facts have been recovered which make a distinct contribution to the history of Egyptian art and architecture during the period of the middle empire. Over a hundred tombs were uncovered in the cemetery found at the base of the pyramid temple; and one of these proved to be the tomb of a lady of the time of the twelfth dynasty named Hawaw. This lady, whose burial surroundings showed her to be a person of importance lived several centuries before the time of Moses, and her mummified body is one of the very oldest of the relics of that kind which have come down to our own era. The mummification of this body possesses much archaeological importance.

The lady of Sanbtes and the many interesting things found in her tomb may soon be seen at the museum, and these and other things from the mummy pits will aid the public to appreciate the wonderful character of the civilization which existed thousands of years ago.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

The Teller County Mining Supply company filed an amended complaint in the district court yesterday to recover $959.67 and interest from August 1, 1901, from John H. Hobbs. The amount claimed is the alleged balance due on a bill of $3,096.59 for merchandise delivered to the Climax Mining and Leasing company. Hobbs as a stockholder and officer of the Climax company, is claimed to have guaranteed the payment of the bill.

A jury in Justice W. N. Ruby's court yesterday returned a verdict of $150 for the plaintiff in the case of J. R. Briggs against Fred Larson, and sustained Briggs' attachment for the amount on Larson's salary. Briggs sold Larson a stock of groceries last September for which the purchaser paid $260 cash and assumed an indebtedness of $150 to wholesale firms. Larson recently resold the groceries without paying the indebtedness, which Briggs was obliged to do.

In the case of Bunker vs. Humphrey in the county court, to recover approximately $20 alleged to be due on a board bill, the jury yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff excepted and was given 10 days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

J. H. Brown and F. J. Kirschner, both of whom have served jail sentences for misdemeanors, were ordered released by Judge Morris yesterday, having sworn that they were unable to pay the costs of their respective trials.

On motion of the district attorney, Judge W. S. Morris of the district court yesterday vacated the trial orders in the cases of John Y. Curr and Joseph O. Major. The trial of Curr for the alleged illegal sale of beef was reset for July 9 and that of Major, accused of passing a bogus check, was reset for June 16.

E. C. Greene of 97 Pallister avenue, Detroit, Mich., has requested the police of this city to aid him in locating Carlton H. Greene, his 18-year-old son, who disappeared October 14, after leaving home for the High school of that city. The boy evidently ran away from home rather than attend school, according to a circular letter written by his father, who is scouring the country for him. He is five feet nine inches tall, weighs 118 pounds, and has sandy hair, light complexion and blue eyes, with a slight muscular twitch of the eyes and face. A reward of $200 is offered for information leading to his recovery.

The case of the People vs. Lynch, appealed by the defendant from the police to the county court, was yesterday continued by Judge Robert Kerr. Mrs. Lynch, who runs a rooming house at 118½ South Tejon street, was recently fined $200 and costs by Magistrate W. H. Gandy, on conviction of keeping a disorderly house.

What the Press Agents Say

THE KEMPTON-KOMEDY-KO.

The popular priced attraction, "The Kempton-Komedy-Ko," will open their engagement at the Opera House Monday evening, presenting "My Dixie Girl." The same play will be repeated on Tuesday, matinee and night. Popular prices will be charged. Matinee, children 10 cents; adults 25 cents. Evening prices, 10c, 20c, 30c, 50c. On Monday evening ladies will be admitted free when accompanied with one paid ticket. An exchange says: "A Homespun Heart," as presented by the Kempton company at the Krug proved one of the most pleasing shows of the season at this popular play house. Mr. John Keogh, as "Andy," won his hearers by his natural acting on this most difficult part. The rest of the cast was excellent and the scenery pretty.

HENRY MILLER IN "THE GREAT DIVIDE"

Henry Miller and "The Great Divide" at the Opera House next Thursday evening are a combination which should be of irresistible attractiveness to our play lovers. "The Great Divide" is one of the big dramas of the present day—the most notable achievement in playwriting in America during the last quarter of a century. Such a verdict, passed upon the play during its 500 nights engagement in New York, has been indorsed without qualification in every other city in which Mr. Miller has presented it. So great has been the demand for this play throughout the country, Mr. Miller has two other companies, besides the one which he heads himself, touring with it. Our theatrical public is to be congratulated upon the fact that the actor-manager is coming to this city in person and that he will be surrounded by his original production. His company, with but one exception, is the same that supported him in New York. "The Great Divide" has furnished Mr. Miller with an extraordinarily strong and picturesque role in the playing of which all his power, subtlety, sincerity, and finesse are brought into command. He shines in a two-fold light in this play—as producer as well as actor, his mastery of stagecraft as shown therein being no less a matter of remark than his consummate histrionism. "Henry Miller at his best as player and producer" has been the unanimous opinion expressed in every city where he has appeared in "The Great Divide."

AT THE ZOO DECORATION DAY.

Old Baldy says to Old Cheyenne, "I'll tell you what I'll do. You take Pike's Peak and I'll take the Zoo."

Old Baldy made a wise selection, for there's going to be all sorts of things doing at the Zoo next Saturday when Alderman Coughlin, of Chicago, proprietor of the park, and his bears, monkeys, elephant and other animals celebrate Memorial day. The animals will not have an opportunity to decorate the graves of their victims, so Proprietor Coughlin has arranged to have a big wild west show in celebration of the day.

Everyone who likes to see real wild west stunts such as cattle roping and broncho riding, should visit the Zoo Saturday afternoon. Every stunt will be a thriller. Then there will be a vaudeville show with the Kentucky colored troubadors putting on some original, up-to-date song and dancing stunts.

Don't miss it.

AT THE CRYSTAL

Another change of program at the popular Crystal theater presents some of the finest picture films ever shown in the city. "An Occasional Porter" is the title of the film that is one of the funnest and most amusing yet presented to the patrons of the Crystal. The other film "In a Submarine," shows the following scenes:

A submarine coming into port is seen gliding smoothly on the water and the little rowboat which is to bring back the captain of the vessel to his post is seen leaving for shore. We see the dashing young officer bidding his love adieu, and then seating himself on the frail craft is soon once more as duty at the wheel. Away they go, and reaching the wide sea the ship gives a lurch and disappears under the water. The submarine trip is progressing most successfully when all at once a terrible commotion takes place in the little steel craft. It is evident a terrible accident has occurred; the machines soon stop their throbbing and down goes the ship to the bottom of the sea. The poor sailors inside are seen gasping for breath, and the desperate efforts of divers sent to the rescue of the submerged men being of no avail, the sailors lie down to die in their steely prison.

As the death agony creeps over the prostrate forms and as their souls are about to depart for a better world, each sees the ones nearest his heart at home.

One of the sailors beholds his sweetheart thinking of him as she stands in front of her cottage door, the engineer sees his beloved wife and child reading one of his letters and, taking down his picture from the wall, they fondly kiss it, to the captain appears his bride arrayed in wedding clothes and looking at her dying lover with longing eyes.

The last scene of this highly tragic film shows the grave erected to all the brave soldiers and sailors who perished in this terrible accident for their country's sake.

The illustrated song, "Sweetheart Days" will be sung by Jack Begley in his usual pleasing manner.

ANOTHER GREAT FIRE SCENE AT FAIRYLAND

Patrons of Fairyland will know that a great fire scene at Fairyland is something worth seeing. Manager Braden has secured another splendid fire picture for today and tomorrow. being sleepy she picks up a book to read a few lines. In a short time sleep overtakes her, the book is dropped, and her hand accidently strikes an oil lamp turning it over. In an instant the bed is in flames. She tries heroically to extinguish the fire, but of no avail. She is finally saved by leaping into a blanket. The fire brigade can not master the flames. At last the city fire department is called, and now a splendid sight greets the eyes as the magnificent animals, three abreast, dash out of the open doors of the station.

"A Complicated Duel," here is doubtless the funniest picture yet. If you don't see this picture you will miss something great. And there are others equally good to be presented today and tomorrow. Especially attractive program for Memorial day. Mr. Harry B. Frink will sing the illustrated song. Mr. Harry Van will render some splendid new selections on the piano. Mr. Charles Templeton, violinist, will play at the evening performances. Here is a program you can not afford to miss.

Manager Lubelski of the Empire theater has been fortunate in securing contracts for the appearance of the world famous Adgie and her troup of performing lions as a head liner of the bill next week. In order that all school children may have the opportunity of seeing this, the greatest act in vaudeville, two special five-cent matinees will be given for them on Wednesday and Thursday.

Saint Paul Fishermen Spearing Fish at White Bear Lake

The opening of the fishing season in St. Paul has been remarkable for the large quantities of fish swimming in the creeks connecting the lakes near the city. Large parties of fishermen daily visit White Bear Lake, a favorite resort, and have been rewarded with large catches of fish. In some cases the fish are so plentiful that it is impossible to cross the creeks without stepping on them, and the fishermen have been able to watch for the big ones and pull them out with their hands. At night time, when the fish seek the shallow water under the banks to rest, gasoline torches are lit and the fish are speared in large quantities through into wagons and shipped to market. These fish are carp, red horse, sheep heads, bull heads and pickerel, the largest pickerel speared this year weighing 30 pounds. The spears used to kill the fish have five prongs barbed at the point. The fish have been so plentiful this year as to threaten to clog up the streams in their mad rush for the deep waters of the lakes in order to deposit their spawn.

In three months time she was well. There can not be too much said in favor of Foley's Honey and Tar. It saved my child's life. Mrs. George Bateson, Fountain Grove, Mo.

EXPENSIVE PERFUMES

The Price of a Perfume Is Determined by the Difficulty of Obtaining the Flower From Which the Perfume Is Distilled.

Perfume ought to be expensive or cheap according to its staying qualities; but this is not at all the case. The almost immortal and always infamous musk is one of the inexpensive odors, while Persian orchid, that is very delicate and evanescent, ranges in price from $6 to $10 an ounce. The reason of this is that the perfumes cost the purchaser what they cost the producer, plus a legitimate profit, however loath the purchaser may be to believe that such is the case. Musk is not difficult to obtain. Persian orchids which are grown in the greenhouses for the florist trade bring $40 a dozen during the winter. It is not of these that the essence is made, although there is much expense and danger attending the collection of the wild orchid blossoms in their native habitat.

Violet, rose and other comparatively cheap odors cost less than lotus and orchid simply because the flowers are more readily obtained. The processes of extracting the aromatic substance are the same. These are three, the simplest being that of steeping the blossoms in oil. Even this is a long and tedious task. The second means of extracting the essential oil is altogether interesting. Large slabs of plate glass are covered with pure grease thickly sprinkled with flower petals. When the direct rays of the sun have transferred the odor to the grease, the petals are removed and fresh ones take their place, until the grease has absorbed all the fragrance it can hold. It will then hold the scent almost indefinitely, and when as much has been removed for the making of perfume as can be extracted, the fragrant grease is employed in the manufacture of the most expensive toilet soaps.

The third method of removing the scent from flowers produces not the essential oil, but the essence in a crystalline form. The petals are infused in ether, which is afterward distilled. The residue is worth many times its weight in gold. A very little of it, dissolved in alcohol, gives the best as well as the most costly perfume. The cheaper imitations of flower odors are not made from the petals at all, but are chemical compounds, the formula being derived from the analysis of this crystallized essence of the flower. In this case, as in most others, nature knows how to safeguard her secrets, for no matter how minutely correct the formula may be, the chemist cannot produce the exact quality and perfume. His compound is only near-rose or near-violet after all, even though it requires an expert to distinguish between the spurious and the genuine.

GOOD ROADS.

From a Speech by Senator Bankhead of Alabama.

Good roads are avenues of progress, the best proof of intelligence; they aid the social and religious advancement of the people; they increase the value of products; they save time, labor and money; they are the initial sources of commerce, which swell in great streams and flow everywhere, distributing the products of our fields, forests and factories. The highways are the common property of the country, their benefits are shared by all, and they are needed by all; they benefit all, and all should contribute to them.

Among the June Magazines

Lippincott's.

The June Lippincott's is an exceptionally strong and well-balanced number. The leading feature is of course the novelette—"The Plaga of a Heart," by Helen Milecete. Jennie Brooks, who has a wide circle of admirers among nature lovers, contributes a charming sketch called "The Fifth Summer of Our Kentucky Cardinal." Joseph M. Rogers concludes his noteworthy series of articles on "Educating Our Boys" with a striking paper called "Some Practical Suggestions." Other brief but forceful articles are by Herman Scheffauer, Anne Hollingsworth Wharton and Robert Adger Bowen. There are clever short stories by Owen Oliver, Katharine Holland Brown, Will Levington Comfort, J. L. Mathews, Anne Wharton Morris, James Raymond Perry, and others, and a number of minor contributions, poetical otherwise. "Walnuts and Wine," the humorous department, is better than ever this month, many of our best known humorists being represented.

Woman's Home Companion.

Five hundred photographs of President Roosevelt, all assembled in one big double picture 13 by 19½ inches in size, is an extraordinary feature of the June Woman's Home Companion. In the June Companion appear the first chapters of Harvey J. O'Higgins' great story, "A Grand Army Man." Other fiction in this delightful summer magazine is by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Zona Gale, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Temple Bailey and Clinton Dangerfield. Kellogg Durland, who of late has spent much time in Russia, tells the dramatic and thrilling story of one of the bravest girls of the Russian revolution. Margaret E. Sangster writes on the American woman as a social engineer. Dr. Edward Everett Hale devotes his monthly page to some working rules of life. Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion expert, gives many practical suggestions for summer dressing. Sam Loyd's own puzzle page is a mine of interest for the puzzle lover.

McClure's

The illustrations alone would make the June McClure's a notable number. Beside the St. Gauden's frontispiece, there are two charming color reproductions of Sir Gilbert Stuart's potraits of Don Josef de Jaudenes y Nebot and his young American wife with a short article on them by Samuel Isham. Miss Terry's monthly installment, "My First Appearance in America," affords an opportunity for unusually interesting illustration. "A land of sunshine and light, of happiness, of faith in the future," is the English actress's enthusiastic summing up of America. George Kennan contributes a very interesting article on "The Problems of Suicide," giving some startling statistics and the least surprising is the fact that the "rare day in June" is the real "suicide breeder." Carl Schurz' article on President Johnson and his War on Congress is an interesting bit of history. The Life of Mrs. Eddy ends in this number with a study of this remarkable woman's book and doctrine. There is an abundance of good fiction—chiefly stories of the comedy and tragedy of married life.

Success Magazine.

The June number describes a number of our well known men as they appear before the camera in an article by Robert Lee Dunn. Sidney Curtis contributes a character sketch of President Eliot. Congressman Quinn through the medium of Henry Beach Needham, tells what he thinks of the house of representatives. Robert Mackay contributes a descriptive-historical article upon the Madison Square region of New York city.

The stories are: "The Lone Chicken Bonanza," by Edward Salisbury Field; "The Last Battleship," by Morgan Robertson; "Heartbreak Trail," by Ella Higginson, and "Hannibal the Delicate," by Joseph C. Lincoln. There are poems by Edith M. Thomas, Mary Fenollosa, Harvey Worthington Loomis and Nixon Waterman.

Putnam's and The Reader.

Fiction is supplied by Alice MacGowan, who begins a strong serial entitled "Judith of the Cumberlands;" C. R. Bacon, whose dramatic tale of New York and Paris is called "A Fronting of Fates;" Frank Waller Allen, who has written a romantic sketch, "In the Moonlight of Picardy;" John Albemarle, who reproduces the atmosphere of the Far East in a powerful story called "An Eye for an Eye;" and "Kate's Wedding," a humorous story by Jane Clifford.

The series of papers entitled "The Romance of the Great Lakes," by James Oliver Curwood, which was begun in the Reader is resumed. The special subject of the profusely illustrated article printed this month is "Passenger Traffic and Summer Life;" and readers will probably be surprised to find how much passenger travel there is on the Great Lakes, and how many people resort to the shores of these enormous bodies of fresh water for their annual holidays.

Photo-Era.

As a summer issue the June number of the Photo-Era is unique, for it contains no less than six feature articles. Perhaps the most interesting is "Glimpses of Cowboy Life in Texas," by George Pattullo, accompanied by illustrations by Erwin E. Smith, a former cow-puncher, now studying art in the school of the Boston Art museum. The five departments are, as usual, replete with timely suggestions, particularly "The Round Robin Guild" and "The Crucible," which are intended to benefit practical photographers.

SELLS VALUABLE LEASE

E. L. KENZIE DISPOSES OF HIS RIGHTS ON MATTIE L.

R. L. Seaver and L. G. Henry Secure Lease on Claim With Good Ore Shoot.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 28.—Edward L. Kenzie, who has been operating successfully on the Mattie L. claim on the west slope of Gold hill, adjacent to the Anchoria-Leland, through the latter company's shaft, has just sold his lease to R. L. Seaver and L. G. Henry. While the price of the lease is not made public it is generally believed to have been for $1,000. Mr. Kenzie has been breaking ore about two and one-half feet wide, and the last shipment sent out gave returns very close to nine ounces.

Practically all of the ore shipped has been running from six to nine ounces in gold to the ton, and the rock shows a large quantity of sylvanite. It is stated on good authority that the last consignment of ore netted the operators $[illegible], which was mined and shipped within 10 days.

R. L. Seaver will be remembered as being a partner of C. H. Harrison, who made the famous strike on the W. P. H. claim of the United Gold Mines company on Ironclad hill some four or five years ago, when practically a million dollars was mined within less than a year. Mr. Seaver, as well as Mr. Harrison, have returned to the camp after being away a few years, and have gone into active mining again. The Mattie L. lease has been looking good for several months, and the grade of ore has been improving steadily. However, there has been but little if any ore shipped that has not given returns of three ounces in gold to the ton. The new purchasers of this lease figure that they can, within a very few weeks, take out enough ore to pay for the lease, and, as the royalties exacted are equitable to lessee and company, each will likely make a good sum before the expiration of the lease. The length of the ore shoot has not as yet been determined, and as there is some 200 feet of stoping ground there should be a small sized fortune taken out.

PASES JERRY JOHNSON.

Drift Will Be Extended and Prospects Are Good.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 28.—Edwin Gaylord of Denver, who, with his associates, erected the W. P. H. cyanide mill on Ironclad hill, and which is treating about 1,300 tons of ore from the Jerry Johnson dump, has just secured a lease on a portion of the Jerry Johnson ground including one or two blocks on the Jerries, as well as the entire Arapahoe claim. Work has been started in the Arapahoe, and a drift will be extended into the adjacent Jerry Johnson blocks at an approximate depth of 400 feet. The shaft on the Arapahoe has been sunk by Frank Caley, former lessee, to a depth of 600 feet. It is believed that one of the rich veins of the Jerry Johnson can be uncovered.

HAS BIG BODY OF RICH ORE

Sam McDonald's Lease on Anchoria-Leland Property Proves Very Productive.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 28.—Sam McDonald, superintendent of the celebrated Strong mine, on Battle mountain, is doing some successful leasing on his own account, and is reported to be making considerable money from his lease on the Anchoria-Leland property on the west slope of Gold hill. At a depth of 400 feet and quite a distance from the shaft toward the Half Moon property, Mr. McDonald is breaking a vein five feet wide, using two machine drills constantly at work. The ore is giving values ranging from $50 to $60 in gold to the ton. By some it is believed that Mr. McDonald has uncovered, or rather recovered the famous Half Moon shoot which made Gus Johnson, the "Lucky Soldier" rich, and from which upwards of three-quarters of a million dollars was taken out near the surface some nine or 10 years ago. Mr. McDonald is shipping from three to five cars of ore a week.

There are several sets of lessees working in the Anchoria-Leland property and all are getting out some ore of various grades. None of it, however, is giving values to exceed $50, although there are many picture assays obtainable. The Anchoria-Leland is maintaining under the leasing system a very satisfactory footage.

MARKET IS COMPOSED

GOULD SLUMP IS BORNE WITH FORTITUDE.

Stocks Show Strength in Face of Unfavorable Developments—Money Market Is Easy.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The stock market today had to sustain some rude buffets in the demoralizing breaks in the Gould stocks, and the power of resistance to this influence which was displayed had some effect of reassurance on speculative sentiment. It has been observed of the speculative liquidation in progress this week that it was not urgently pressed on a falling market, advantage being taken rather of strong periods to market the stock. This fact has impressed the light in the apparent resources of the seller to realize.

The apparent composure with which the drop in the Gould group was viewed may be due to the survival of a conviction that good to the general situation may be evolved out of the reorganization believed to be imminent. The same spirit was manifest toward the news of a receivership for the Western Maryland. In March, Tuesday project represented the central portion of the proposed Wabash extension to the Atlantic seaboard as the Wabash Pittsburg terminal does the western line. The difficulties of the Western Maryland gave rise to rumors that reorganization would be on terms to secure the Wabash in its outlet facilities, and at the same time do away with rival ties threatened by the form of project.

The acute conditions developed today for the securities concerned in that project grew out of the fact that interest on first mortgage bonds of the Pittsburg Terminal company falls due on Monday next, for which the provision is considered doubtful. Nothing said by the officials of the company was calculated to allay this doubt, which was much aggravated by the unsupported condition of the security in the market.

Doubts were impelled as well of the maintenance of the dividends on Missouri Pacific, the last declaration having been made payable in stock instead of in cash.

The reduction in the official discount rate of the Bank of England, in spite of the continued demands of the continental centers upon London for gold was eloquent of the irresistible effect of the sweep into bank reserves in keeping down the reserves. The same state of affairs is discernible in our own money market, where money continues easy in spite of the week's requirement of nearly $18,000,000 on the New York banks, already met, for return of government deposits and for exports of gold. Apparently this heavy drain is offset fully one-third by the continued inflow of currency from the interior.

The passage through the House of the emergency currency bill was the professed ground for some of the early buying of stocks. London Copper was higher today. The decidedly more cheerful tone of reviews of iron and steel trade situation was a factor in making up the tone of the day's speculation. So also was the sustained confidence in the crop condition expressed by trade publications.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,658,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

MAY DELIVERY ADVANCES STILL FURTHER.

Favorable Reports on Growing Crops Cause Weakness in Futures.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Manipulation by leading bulls caused a still further advance today in the price of May wheat and May corn, the former selling up to $1.03¾, and the latter to 83¾c. Other deliveries were weak because of heavy realizing sales. At the close May wheat was up 2¾c, and July was down 1⅛@1¼c. May corn closed ¾c higher, and July ⅛@¼c lower. July oats were off ⅛c. Provisions were 7½c to 10@12½c lower.

The wheat market, with the exception of the May delivery, was weak nearly all day because of favorable reports regarding the growing crops in this country and abroad. At times the strength of the May delivery, which was in active demand by shorts, caused considerable gains in the deferred months, but with each advance came free sales by longs, which resulted in a fresh setback. The May option was highly congested and prices jumped up and down 1c to 3c at a jump. A report that 500,000 bushels of wheat had been shipped from Kansas City for delivery here on May contracts caused a slump late in the day. At the close, however, the May delivery was strong and others were weak. July opened ⅛c to ¼c lower at 91⅝c to 91¾c, advanced to 92½c, and then declined to 90½c. The close was at 90¾@90⅞c. May opened 3c higher at $1.02, sold off to $1.00⅞c, and then advanced to $1.03¾. The close was at $1.03. The clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 288,000 bushels, compared with a holiday last year. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 153 cars, against 149 cars last week, and a holiday one year ago.

The corn market was irregular, the May delivery being strong all day and the more distant futures weak. Shorts bid up the price of May to 82¾c, a new high mark for the season, but the volume of trade at that delivery was small. Commission houses were heavy sellers of September and brought about sharp declines in both of these options. At the close May was strong, and the other deliveries weak. July opened a shade to ¼@¼c lower, at 68⅞c to 68¾c, sold off to 67¾c, and closed at 67¾c. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher, at 80c to 81c, advanced to 82¾c, and closed at 82½c. Local receipts were 398 cars, with 400 contract grade.

Oats were weak, with the exception of the May delivery, which was firm all day on covering by shorts. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher, at 48⅛c to 48¼c, and sold off to 47½c, where it closed. May closed at 56½c, which was ⅛c higher than yesterday. Local receipts were 149 cars.

Provisions were weak, despite a 5c to 10c advance in live hogs. At the close July pork was off 10@12½c, at $13.65@13.67½. Lard was 10c lower, at $8.47½. Ribs were 7½c lower at $8.37½.

X-RAY TO STAMP OUT CRIME

Physician Says Its Use Can End Generations of Criminals.

From the New York American.

That the future criminal and insane population of this country can be vastly lessened, and in fact almost stamped out, by the X-ray is the startling declaration made yesterday by Dr. Guernsey Hammond, the eminent chemist and student of criminology.

"It has been discovered by science that the application of X-rays renders sterile the spark of future life," Dr. Hammond said, "and I am heartily in favor of the enactment of legislation that would permit such application to be made to all persistent offenders against the laws."

Dr. Hammond is a firm believer in the effects of heredity. He declares that the children of criminals are likely—either through heredity or early environments—to become criminals themselves. He quotes several authorities supporting that view, and instances numerous cases to prove his argument. The obvious measure to successfully fight crime in the future, therefore, is to insure the world against future generations of criminals, he contends.

"It was discovered by accident quite recently that the X-ray possessed qualities of sterilization," Dr. Hammond explained. "Those who discovered it were its first victims—the doctors who spend hours each day using the ray. Experiments upon animals followed.

"The idea came to me then that here was an ideal method for carrying out the plan of sterilizing criminals, which has been urged from time to time. That the world will come to such measures as a general and accepted expo-
